EMPIRE CONFERENCE SEEKS NEW CO-OPERATION

Round-trip Atlantic Flight Is Completed Merrill-Lambie Plane Greeted By New York Crowd

After Brief Halt at Field in Massachusetts, Pilots Hop to Destination With Coronation Pictures From London; First Commercial Round-trip Atlantic Flight

Fuel Margin At End of Journey

Associated Press
Floyd Bennett Field, New York, May 14.—Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie landed their twin-motored monoplane here at 3.35 p.m., E.S.T. (12.35 p.m., P.S.T.) today, completing their round trip trans-Atlantic flight.

Hurting through the "white darkness" of a drizzling fog, the fliers arrived here twenty-four hours and twenty-two minutes after their departure from Southampton, England.

The plane carried still pictures of Coronation scenes in London, the original plan to transport movies having been abandoned by the producers.

The fliers were compelled to make a brief landing at the Squantum naval air station in Massachusetts to check their bearings before proceeding to the starting point of their flight.

CLOUDS OVER FLYING
Dark clouds hung low over the rain-drenched field when the silver monoplane glided swiftly in from the north.

Approximately 5,000 persons, keyed to a high pitch of excitement by several hours of waiting, watched the landing.

The two fliers clambered out of the cabin almost as soon as the plane had come to a halt on the concrete runway and grinned toward the cheering crowd.

Their total elapsed flying time was set unofficially as exactly twenty-four hours. They made a twenty-two minute stopover at Squantum.

COMMERCIAL FLIGHT
It was the first commercial round-trip trans-Atlantic flight by an airplane.

The veteran transport pilots flew pictures of the Hindenburg disaster to England and brought back photographs of King George VI's Coronation.

On a previous round trip flight with Harry Richman, night club singer, last September, Merrill made the return trip in the elapsed flying time of twenty-three hours, seven minutes. On that occasion he was forced down in Newfoundland, and had to wait several days for a new propeller.

Treasury Bill Issue Is Sold

Ottawa, May 14.—Tenders for $20,000,000 Dominion of Canada treasury bills due August 16, 1937, have been accepted, the Bank of Canada announced today. The average discount price of the accepted bids was $99.81814 and the average yield was .715 per cent.

FAIRFIELD MAN FOUND GASED

Percy Macdonald, 1166
Oscar Street, Dies in Bed;
Found By Postman

Believed to have been the victim of gas fumes which permeated his house when the kettle boiled over and put the flame out, Percy Macdonald, 1166 Oscar Street, was found dead in his bed at home this morning.

The light in his room was on and a newspaper was found beside him in bed. A partly-filled kettle was found on the gas range with the flame out but the jet partly turned on.

The discovery was made this morning at 9.45 o'clock by Kenneth Christie, 410 Superior Street, a postman, who smelled gas when making a regular call at the house. He secured a key from the neighbor next door and entered the house.

Constable Thomas Stevenson and Thomas Banister were summoned from police headquarters. Dr. Lloyd W. Bassett was called and later Coroner E. C. Hart ordered removal of the body.

It is thought Mr. Macdonald fell asleep while reading in bed, waiting for the water to boil. The kettle is believed to have boiled over, putting the flame out.

An inquest will be held next week. Mr. Macdonald was employed as a machinist in the water works department and had for many years been in the city's employ. He was born here on October 18, 1891. During the war he was a mechanic in the Royal Air Force and after the war he rejoined the civic service.

He is survived by a son and daughter, two brothers, W. L. and Ernest Macdonald, and two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Smith and Mrs. Percy Wilson.

Doukhobors Are Found Guilty

Nelson, B.C., May 14.—Thirteen Doukhobor members of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood were found guilty by Stipendiary Magistrate William Irving today on charges of failing to register vital statistics.

Sentencing of the Doukhobors—all from the Shore Acres district, fourteen miles west of here—was deferred until later in the afternoon. The Vital Statistics Act provides for a maximum sentence of $20 fine or six months' imprisonment.

Planning Board Set Up In Japan

Regime Similar to War-time Launched With Industrial-military Five-year Scheme

Tokyo, May 14.—Japan inaugurated a virtual war-time economic regime today when Emperor Hirohito approved a planning board, under the chairmanship of Tōyotaru Yuki, finance minister.

The chief problems of the board are:
Formulation of a joint industrial-military five-year plan embracing Japan and Manchukuo in one economic bloc and aiming at state control of major industries to insure self-sufficiency in war materials.

Creation of a central aviation-administrative organ to improve and expand the empire's at present lagging aircraft industry.

Establishment of a public health department to promote welfare of civilians and military and naval forces.

Reform of the present election law.

Fire Losses In City Increase

Including the $45,000 loss in the Post Office fire, city fire losses this year show an increase of $37,308.60 over last year, to the end of April, according to figures announced today. The loss for April was $2,748.30. There were forty-one alarms, including five false calls.

The total loss for the year to date is $50,936.30, compared with $13,677.70 for the same period last year.

Japanese Fliers On Trip Home

Croydon, Eng., May 14.—The Japanese fliers, Masaki Inuma and Henji Tsukagoshi, hopped off today at 8.10 a.m. in their monoplane, "Divine Wind," for a return flight to Tokyo, carrying Coronation pictures.

Airship Expert At Hindenburg Inquiry

Dr. Hugo Eckener Talks With Surviving Officers of Zeppelin Before Giving
Testimony at Lakehurst Hearing

Lakehurst, N.J., May 14.—Arrival of Dr. Hugo Eckener cleared the way today for the investigators to take a new track in their inquiry into the destruction of the airship Hindenburg—an attempt to learn whether the dirigible was valving hydrogen before she blew up.

That is one of the questions which apparently must be answered by officers of the Zeppelin, but the United States Department of Commerce investigating board deferred questioning them until Dr. Eckener, president of the company which built the Hindenburg and world authority on airships, had a chance to interview them. Pale and obviously weary after his race from Vienna in less than a week, Dr. Eckener retired shortly after arrival here early today.

CONFERENCE ON SHIP

Dr. Eckener's six-man German commission had launched an inquiry into the Hindenburg disaster two hours before the members landed in New York. United States investigators joined them in the captain's drawing room aboard the German liner Europa.

There Dr. Eckener agreed to interrupt the conference briefly to send out a statement that Germany had intended first to perfect trans-Atlantic service in co-operation with the United States before attempting to obtain non-inflammable helium for use instead of hydrogen.

Hedley Ex-chief Is Remanded

Russell E. Barker Will Face
Court in Vancouver Next Wednesday

Vancouver, May 14.—Russell E. Barker, former president of Hedley Amalgamated Gold Mines Ltd., who surrendered to city police yesterday almost a week after a provincial government commission had declared values of ore samples from the mine were obtained by "salting," was remanded till next Wednesday when he appeared in police court today on charges of conspiracy to defraud.

A warrant was issued for Barker's arrest last week after Commissioner G. L. Fraser of Vancouver had submitted to the government his report on operations of the Hedley company. William Cox, former superintendent, and Jack Fraser, mine foreman, were also remanded till Wednesday when they appeared in court on similar charges. They were arrested by British Columbia police at the Hedley property last week.

Bail bonds of $5,000 for Barker were placed by George Irvine, Vancouver sportsman. Cox and Fraser were freed on bail early in the week.

GOERING AT VENICE

Venice, Italy, May 14.—General Hermann Goering, German air minister, arrived here today from Berlin. His wife is expected from Florence tomorrow.

Mine Blamed For H.M.S. Hunter Blast

British Admiralty Says Inquiry "Suggests" Floating Device Exploded When Hit By Destroyer Off
South Spain; Eight Killed

Associated Press
London, May 14.—The Admiralty tonight announced that a preliminary investigation "suggests" the destroyer Hunter struck a floating mine prior to yesterday's explosion off Almeria, southern Spain, which killed eight of her crew.

This official announcement substantiated earlier indications of a mine placed off the Spanish-held port had caused the blast.

The Admiralty said the Hunter would be towed to Gibraltar.

INQUIRY AT ALMERIA

The official statement came as the Admiralty launched an investigation at Almeria to determine who laid the mine and fix responsibility for what observers believed would be a stern protest.

The victims of the explosion which ripped open the warship's bow in mid-afternoon were three petty officers, four seamen and a stoker.

Fourteen other members of the crew were injured, some of them seriously, said the announcement, made after a thorough check of the ship's roll.

WAS ON PATROL DUTY
Dispatches from Gibraltar said the destroyer, one of Britain's newest men-of-war, was on duty as a unit of the international "hands-off-Spain" patrol when she struck the floating mine about four miles off the southeastern corner of Spain (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Eckener Sees Airship Wreck

Lakehurst, N.J., May 14.—His face a mask, the old master of zeppelins Dr. Hugo Eckener, saw for the first time today the gaunt ruins of his flagship, the Hindenburg. Silently he surveyed the almost shapeless remains of the great dirigible on the sandy naval air station landing field here.

Prime Ministers' Debates May Aid Easing of World Unrest, States Baldwin

ALASKA CITY HALF FLOODED

Many Fairbanks Homes
Evacuated as New Rise Feared

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 14.—Half of Fairbanks' 2,100 residents were surrounded by water varying from a few inches to three feet deep today, as the Chena River continued to send a swirling mass of water and ice into the city's business and residential districts.

A forecast of cold weather gave refugees hope that the waters would recede.

Many homes, water spreading into the living rooms, were evacuated, residents seeking shelter in hotels and a large concrete school building.

City officials said they believed the school would be closed today. Precautions were taken to guard the city's water supply.

Water breaking through from the Tanana River, which joins the Chena ten miles south of here, where there is a huge ice jam, may aggravate the flood situation unless ice jams in the Tanana break, allowing water to go down that stream, officials said.

All highway and rail communication to the outside was severed, and the airport was flooded, preventing takeoff and landing of planes.

Twelve members of a Hollywood motion picture company, led by director Norman Dawn of Republic Pictures Corp., were marooned on a nearby island, unreported since early yesterday.

Co-ordination of Empire Countries' Aims May Contribute to Peaceful Relations Abroad, States Prime Minister King; Australian, New Zealand and Other Leaders Address Great Gathering in London

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 14.—Prime Minister Baldwin, as statesmen of the Empire gathered around the council table today, urged they examine and see what can be done about the pressing problems perplexing the world.

"It will be our task," he told the first plenary session of the Imperial Conference just after he had been chosen chairman, "to examine the causes of present international unrest, exchange views on them and consider whether there is any contribution which we, co-operating together, could make to their diminution or removal."

Message to King From Conference

Empire Prime Ministers
Voice Loyalty; Sovereign
Sends Reply

London, May 14.—The King, in a message signed by his own hand, replied this afternoon to the message of loyalty sent by the Imperial Conference this forenoon.

"I sincerely thank the Prime Ministers and other representatives of the British Commonwealth of Nations," His Majesty's message read, "for the message of loyalty and devotion which they addressed to me and myself on the opening of the first Imperial Conference of my reign."

"It is very fitting that the solemn ceremony of last Wednesday should be succeeded immediately by your deliberations. I shall follow them with the greatest interest in the confident hope that they will advance the happiness and prosperity of all my peoples."

"GEORGE R. I."

London, May 14.—When the Empire statesmen opened their deliberations this morning, they gathered not, as previously had been the custom, about the council table of historic No. 10 Downing Street, but for the first time in a royal palace. And as they sat in the old drawing-room of St. James's their first duty was to send a loyal message to King George VI.

On motion of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, seconded by Joseph A. Lyons of Australia, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain was appointed chairman of the Imperial Conference.

STANDING VOTE
Members of the conference rose as Mr. Baldwin then proposed that "the prime ministers and other representatives of the British Commonwealth of Nations, assembled in conference in London, at their first meeting and as their first official act desire to present their respectful duty (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

King Gives Medals To Empire Troops

Stirring Scene as Canadians and Men From Other Dominions and Colonies
Decorated at Buckingham
Palace

London, May 14.—An inspiring picture symbolizing the might of the British Empire was witnessed in the gardens of Buckingham Palace today as the King and Queen, aided by the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Kent, presented Coronation medals to more than 1,200 troops from the Dominions, India, the colonies and protectorates.

Troops were drawn up in three sides of a square on the big lawn when Their Majesties, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret and other members of the royal family came out on the palace balcony.

It was a stirring sight for the thousands who milled outside the railings of the palace grounds. The King, wearing the dark blue dress uniform of a field marshal, first received officers of the various contingents. Then Their Majesties and the King's two brothers each took a separate rank, distributing the medals of Garter blue, red and white.

Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, dressed in pink with wide brimmed pink hats, accompanied their mother. Queen mother Mary and the Duchess of Gloucester watched the ceremony from the palace steps.

CANADIANS IN LINE
After the investiture the troops formed into columns and, led by the colorful soldiers from India, marched past the King and Queen. Second in the march past were the Canadians, whose band struck up "Land of Hope and Glory" as they passed in review.

Two Canadian nurses received medals.

Tremendous cheers greeted the troops as they marched from the garden gate and into the Mall, where two days ago the King started his historic drive to Westminster Abbey for the Coronation.

Following Mr. Baldwin as Prime Minister of the senior Dominion, Prime Minister King of Canada praised the example of political democracy and the individual liberty provided through three centuries by Great Britain, and said it should be the aim of the rest of the Empire so to order their relations and co-ordinate their policies that they in turn might contribute in the peaceful ordering of international relations.

TRADE ON FREER BASIS

Reserving comment on the international situation until later sessions, the Canadian Prime Minister spoke of steps toward freer trade taken by Canada and declared "the countries represented here have a definite responsibility to join with other countries willing to co-operate in a concerted effort to avoid increasing tariff or exchange or quota controls and to lessen in every practicable way the barriers to international trade."

AUSTRALIAN VIEWS

Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons of Australia called for the formulation of a "consistent, unified Empire policy."

"We must be prepared to play our part in ensuring the peace of the world," he declared. "We must be prepared to offer our counsel and to reinforce that counsel with our assistance."

"The Australian government feels that a statement should issue from this conference which will demonstrate to the rest of the world that the countries composing the British Commonwealth of Nations are prepared to act together in support of the maintenance of law and order."

COMMITTEES TO WORK

After the heads of all delegations had spoken, the work of the conference was suspended over the Whitehall holidays. Committees probably will begin work next Tuesday. Heads of delegations will meet Wednesday to open consideration of the dominant problems of foreign policy and defence.

Three committees were established—for civil air communications, shipping and economic questions. A further plenary session was considered unlikely till the committees are ready to report.

THEIR THIRD CONFERENCE
In his opening statement, Prime Minister Baldwin observed that three prime ministers, Mr. King, Mr. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

STEEL PLANT STRIKE ENDS

Settlement Reached in Dispute Involving 27,000 at Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, May 14.—Settlement of the strike of 27,000 Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation workers was announced today by Chairman Phil Murray of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

Murray said a temporary agreement had been reached under which operations would be resumed at the company's plants almost immediately.

Emerging from a conference with Chairman H. E. Lewis of the corporation, Murray said picket lines at the company's plants in Pittsburgh and Aliquippa would be withdrawn immediately and operations be resumed during the day.

Terms of the tentative agreement will govern relations between the union and the company until next week when, members of the union committee said, an election of employees will be held under supervision of the National Labor Relations Board.

Murray said details of the tentative agreement would be announced later.

MOTORS SETTLEMENT

Cleveland, May 14.—Lincoln R. Scafe, plant manager of General Motors' Fisher Body plant here, announced today a temporary agreement had ended a dispute which threw its 6,300 employees into idleness yesterday.

Scafe said the men had agreed to return to their jobs Tuesday, and that any grievances would be taken up after their return to work.

FATHER DIVINE

New York, May 14.—Amid tumultuous shouts from his negro followers, Father Divine, self-styled God of Harlem, today was dismissed on charges of felonious assault as an aftermath of a recent stabbing affray in his "No. 1 Heaven" in the upper Manhattan black belt.

Magistrate Leonard McGee dismissed the case when none of the witnesses could identify any of the assailants in the wild surging melee that sent Harry B. Green, a white contractor, of Weehawken, N.J., to a hospital with serious stab wounds.

where it juts out into the Mediterranean. Only three bodies had been recovered when darkness last night forced rescue workers to halt their search aboard the vessel, which was towed to a mole in Almeria harbor.

DEAD TRAPPED IN BOW
As soon as daylight broke the search was resumed for the bodies of the several dead believed still trapped inside the twisted forepart of the 1,400-ton warship, commissioned for service last September.

The wounded were placed in hospitals in the port city, held by the Spanish Government.

INSURGENTS' STATEMENT
Gibraltar, May 14.—The insurgent Spanish command at Salanance charged today the explosion which crippled the British destroyer Hunter and killed eight of her crew yesterday was "a dastardly red manoeuvre."

Hinting the Spanish Government was to blame, an official insurgent communiqué based its "red manoeuvre" premise on the "closeness of and immediate assistance rendered by red vessels."

By that it meant the Spanish Government warships which removed survivors from the Hunter off Almeria, on the southern coast.

The British hospital ship Maine was sent to Almeria from Gibraltar to bring back the dead and wounded.

MANY DEATHS IN AIR RAID

Residents of Zaragoza in Spain Die in Beds, Lulled By False Alarms

Zaragoza, Spain, May 14.—More than 100 persons were killed or injured today in an early morning raid after citizens of this insurgent stronghold on the Aragon battlefield had been lulled into a feeling of security by two false alarms.

Twice before during the night, the warning sirens had shrieked and the frightened populace had rushed to bomb-proof cellars only to find there had been no danger.

The third time many refused to heed the shrill signal and were slain in their beds before they could flee to cellars.

MAIN FRONTS QUIET
Madrid, May 14.—Troops of both insurgent and Government armies exchanged their rifles and machine guns for picks and shovels today to build dugouts and trenches on the Toledo front south of the capital and the Basque front in the far north.

Fortification work was halted occasionally by a few exploding shells and by localized attacks, but little activity otherwise was reported from the two main battlefronts of the Spanish civil war.

San Sebastian, Spain, May 14.—Imitating the Italian press boycott on Coronation news, the Spanish insurgent organ Voz de Espana announced today it had considerable information on London activities but would not publish it because the Spanish people were too busy "restoring our glory."

Mrs. Warfield's Rank Discussed

Future Duchess of Windsor to Be Eighth Lady of Britain

London, May 14.—The future ranking of Mrs. Wallis Warfield as Duchess of Windsor apparently has been definitely fixed, informed persons disclosed tonight, by changing the Duke's Order of the Garter banner to a position behind that of his three younger brothers.

That it was stated with seeming authority, would make the future Duchess of Windsor eighth lady of the realm.

Informed persons said the question of whether the Duke's bride-to-be would be called "Her Royal Highness" the Duchess of Windsor has not been determined. The government is said to be opposed to the "H.R.H." designation.

Unofficial but usually well-informed sources said the British government appeared to have won its point with the Duke of Windsor to keep Mrs. Warfield from being styled "Her Royal Highness" after they are married.

Message to King From Conference

to the King and offer Your Majesty and Her Majesty the Queen their tribute and loyal devotion.

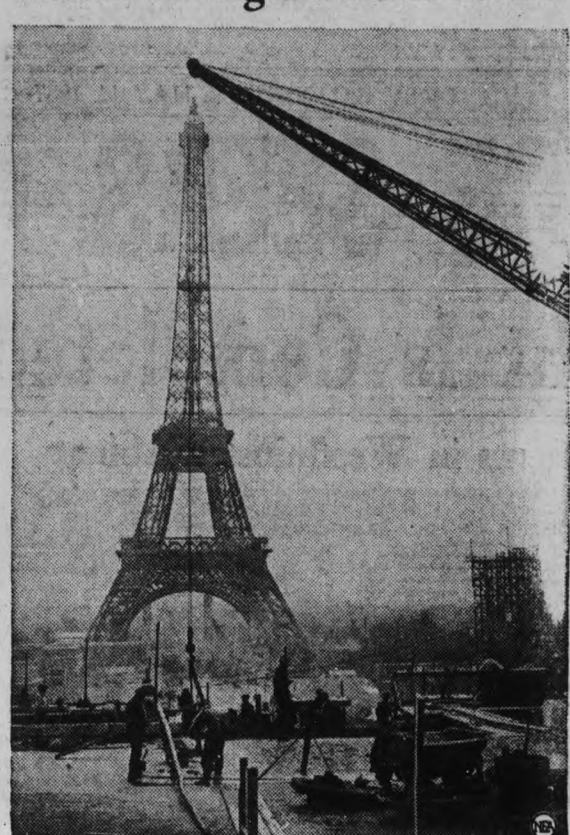

"They pray that Your Majesty's reign," the resolution said, "which has been inaugurated so auspiciously by the Coronation celebrated two days ago, may be happy and prosperous and that under Divine Providence Your Majesty may long be spared to strengthen the ties of affection and loyalty which unite all the peoples of the British Commonwealth under the crown."

Mr. Baldwin, speaking of "the grievous loss sustained in the death of King George V," said:

"Many of us round this table knew the value of his wise counsel and quiet courage in times of difficulties and stress."

Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog of South Africa seconded the motion. Prime Minister King paid high tribute to the late King George V, whose essential humanity "brought us all together as members of a great family."

What! Moving the Eiffel Tower?

Trans-Canada Air Plans Are Speeded

Ottawa, May 14.—Every effort will be made to have the Canadian transcontinental air service in operation this year. Transport Minister C. D. Howe stated today. He has hopes these efforts will be successful. Organization work is going forward in Montreal under the management of the Canadian National Railways, but it is not anticipated a permanent corporation will be established until late summer.

Merrill-Lambie Plane Greeted By New York Crowd

today brought their plane down at the naval air base at Squantum, near Boston.

After getting their bearings, Merrill and Lambie almost immediately took off again for New York.

MOTORS WORK WELL
Merrill said the engines had worked well all the way across the Atlantic. The Squantum air base, he said, was the first land they had seen since 8 a.m. E.S.T., when they were over Newfoundland.

The fliers stopped at the air base just long enough to check their gasoline supply, which they found adequate. They ate a light lunch.

FOLLOW RADIO BEAM
"We had been following the radio beam and it led us into Squantum," Merrill said. "We were afraid of our gas supply and both of us were pretty much worn out."

"We decided to make a landing. After landing we checked our gasoline supply more thoroughly and saw we had sufficient gas to continue on to Floyd Bennett Field."

Naval airplane mechanics asked Merrill if he wished their services.

"No," he said, "our motors have been acting beautifully since the take-off. It was my gas I was worried about. I wanted to land rather than continue on to New York, as I know we had consumed more gas than we had anticipated, due to unfavorable weather conditions off Newfoundland."

UNIONIZING PLAN

Detroit, May 14.—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, said today the union would begin its drive to organize Ford Motor Company workers next week.

Royal Family Thanks Canada

Ottawa, May 14.—Messages of thanks for Coronation greetings came from King George and Queen Mary today to Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada.

The King cabled: "The Queen and I extend to the people of Canada our heartfelt thanks for their loyal assurances and good wishes on the occasion of our Coronation, which we deeply appreciate. George R.I."

The Queen Mother's message was: "Please accept my grateful thanks for the charming message from yourself and the people of Canada which has touched me. Mary R."

BODY OF WOMAN TAKEN FROM SEA

Dover, Kent, Eng., May 14.—The body of a woman, wearing a flying suit, was taken out of the English Channel five miles off the English shore today by the crew of a train ferry.

Her identity became a mystery after the pilot of the aged Duchess of Bedford, who disappeared on a flight last March 22, said there was no possibility the body was that of this employer.

Free State Urged To Join Conference

London, May 14.—Prime Minister King of Canada, addressing the Imperial Conference here today, spoke of the loss sustained by the Empire in the death of Sir Austen Chamberlain, of changes in the personnel of the conference itself, and of the absence of the Irish Free State.

"I am sure," Mr. King continued, "that we all trust this is only a temporary situation and that future conferences may benefit by a distinctive contribution to their discussions of the Irish Free State representatives, as did those of 1923 and subsequent years."

E. Bloomfield, Vancouver, Dies

Vancouver, May 14.—Edgar Bloomfield, sixty-eight, retired barrister, died here yesterday. A funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Bloomfield, who started his Vancouver law practice forty-six years ago, retired in 1927. Before then he was associated with the late Charles Wilson, K.C., who was Attorney-General in the British Columbia administration of Sir Robert McBride.

He is survived by one son, Jervis Bloomfield of Seattle, and two daughters, Marjorie in West Vancouver and Joan in England.

Empire Conference Seeks New Cooperation

Hertzog and himself, were attending their third Imperial Conference.

Speaking of the quarter century between the crowning of King George V and King George VI, Mr. Baldwin said no other equal period "of our history witnessed constitutional changes so profound, so far reaching, so naturally achieved."

"The self-governing communities of the British Commonwealth have become an association of peoples each with a sovereign freedom of its own, but accustomed to co-operate closely with each other in the matters of common concern to all associated under the crown," he said.

In the process of change one principle remained constant—the principle of co-operation.

LIBERTY FOR ALL

"We believe in agreement as the mainspring, and in democratic institutions as the method of government. We set out trust in them because we think they are the best means mankind has devised for preserving those things to which we attach supreme value—liberty of the individual, freedom of thought, speech and conscience."

It had already been agreed that foreign affairs and defence should be the main subjects of the conference.

"With so many of the most powerful nations of the world expanding their armed forces," said Mr. Baldwin, "we in this country have decided that it is our duty to put our defences in order at a cost the magnitude of which you know."

island, which is still the heart of the Empire, but also that we may be equipped to fulfill our responsibilities in guarding the security of the Empire overseas and as a loyal member of the League of Nations.

"Others of you here are impressed with the same danger, and, though equally deploring the necessity, felt compelled to revise your own defence preparations. It will be our task to consider whether, while preserving our individual rights as to decision on action, we can co-ordinate our various policies in such a way as to assist one another and—as I, know, the hope and prayer of all of us—to help forward the cause of peace."

OPEN DISCUSSION

Speaking of steady progress towards ultimate success ensured by free discussion in an atmosphere of tolerance and understanding, Mr. Baldwin said that "in achieving this we may give to the peoples of this distracted world proof that combined work among nations is as possible as it is in the everyday experience and social life of each one of us."

CONTINUITY THROUGH CHANGE

Prime Minister King, who spoke after Mr. Baldwin, spoke of continuity through change as a distinctive quality of British institutions.

"It may be said that the new oath (taken by King George VI at the Coronation last Wednesday), preserving the old and finding a place for the new, embodies in simple fashion our political faith, and mirrors the structure of this group of free, equal, autonomous states known as the British Commonwealth of Nations," said Mr. King.

The trend of events abroad, however, made it clear it would be no easy task to hold these gains of the past, much less make further advances. Democracy and individual freedom had been challenged and scorned abroad and questioned and belittled in some quarters at home.

LOSSES IN SOME COUNTRIES

The Canadian Prime Minister declared that under the driving force of new social gospel, combined with old ambitions for dominance and glory, individual political liberty had been sacrificed in many lands to the demands of the all-powerful state.

In countries in which liberty had taken deep and firm root its precious, indispensable quality had been realized afresh by the new bonds of sympathy established between democratic states.

NEW NEEDS

Sometimes even in this motherland of Parliaments, however, it was contended the institutions of democracy were inadequate to meet the needs of the twentieth century. Sometimes in other members of the Commonwealth it was contended that insistence on a full measure of self-government was quibbling about academic constitutional issues of little practical importance.

Today such doubts had passed. Now that the stark contrast between liberty and regimentation had been made manifest to all, the value of freedom as a source of individual self-realization of national power and enduring international co-operation had been more fully realized than ever before, he said.

"In bringing about the realization of the abiding value of freedom in the reinterpretation of democracy to new needs, you, Mr. Prime Minister (it was Mackenzie King's reference to Mr. Baldwin), I venture to observe, played a foremost part."

SECTIONAL STRAIN

One outcome of the depression in Canada, he said, had been an increase in sectional stress and strain to bring to the surface problems which "may require some readjustment of the final and constitutional relations between the Dominion and the provinces."

INTERNATIONAL FIELD

"The international situation will be reviewed in detail at later sessions," said Mr. King. "I shall therefore not make any reference to it at this point beyond expressing our firm conviction that enduring peace cannot be achieved without economic appeasement, that political tension will not lessen without an abatement of the policies of economic nationalism and economic imperialism."

Speaking of the trade treaties already made by Canada, Mr. King said: "We hope to be able to continue on these lines with countries both within and without the Commonwealth and thus contribute in a measure our power to a revival of trade and the consequent removal of international friction and conflict."

Prime Minister Lyons of Australia, who followed Mr. King, said Australia would greatly welcome a regional understanding and a pact of non-aggression by the countries of the Pacific, conceived in the spirit of the principles of the League of Nations.

Towards achievement of such a pact Australia was prepared to collaborate with all other peoples of the Pacific in a spirit of understanding and sympathy.

HOPES FOR DECISIONS

Prime Minister Michael J. Savage of New Zealand urged the need of definite conference decisions. "I for one," he said, "shall be most disappointed if, after coming so many thousand miles to attend this conference, I should unhappily be forced to return without effective results."

Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog of South Africa felt the conference would be known more by what it was going to achieve in the interests of peace than by anything else.

INDIA AWAKENING

The Gaekwar of Baroda said India was awakening after a long quiescence. This vast energy, he said, was leading politically towards the attainment of full stature as an autonomous unit of the British Commonwealth.

Dr. B. A. Maw, Burma's first representative, thanked the governments of the United Kingdom and the Dominions for recognition of Burma's new status in allowing her to send an observer.

TRADE BARRIERS ARE CONDEMNED

French Lick, Ind., May 14.—Civilization will go "completely bankrupt" unless world trade channels are cleared for a "freer flow of international goods," the Bankers' Association for Foreign Trade was told here yesterday by its president, W. F. Gephart, vice-president of the First National Bank, St. Louis.

Gephart said "political and not economic considerations" had erected barriers to world commerce. "The most disturbing aspect of the present situation," he declared, "is the mesmeric spell that seems to have been cast by dictators and semi-dictators over their peoples. Democracy is in an eclipse."

SORRY TO SEE SPLIT IN C.C.F.

J. S. Woodsworth, M.P.,
Comments on Defection in B.C. Party

Vernon, B.C., May 14.—J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., Winnipeg, Federal C.C.F. leader, speaking here last night, explained briefly the process his party would use to nationalize industry, commended the slogan coined by Premier Pattullo prior to the 1933 provincial general election—"Work and Wages"—and told C.C.F. members they must learn to stick together.

Certain basic industries would be expropriated by the C.C.F., with fair restitution made through funds raised by taxation, Mr. Woodsworth explained.

"If some firm wanted $100,000 for their rights, and we thought that was an unfair price, we could pay them that sum, and then use our constitutional rights to tax them afterwards, thus reducing the figure to a fair level."

As for the "work and wages" slogan the was none more satisfactory, the C.C.F. leader declared, but added he thought a government should be put in power that would really implement the motto.

Referring to the split in the C.C.F. British Columbia ranks last year when Rev. Robert Connell and three members in the Legislature broke away and formed the Constructive Party, Mr. Woodsworth said he was very sorry to note the action.

GERMANY ADDS RUBBER DUTY

Berlin, May 14.—Germany imposed a special import duty yesterday on foreign rubber to assist domestic manufacturers of synthetic rubber and bolster the Third Reich's four-year plan for self-sufficiency.

The levy will be the equivalent of a little more than 22 cents a pound. Revenue from this special tariff will be used for building synthetic rubber factories.

MARKET SLUMPS

New York, May 13.—A new slump in the rubber futures market today followed word from Berlin of imposition of a special import duty on the commodity to aid Germany's synthetic rubber activities. The London market was similarly affected, breaking sharply before the opening here.

ESTATE REPORT DENIED

Miami, Fla., May 14.—William B. Leeds said today he knew "nothing whatever" about a report that an English syndicate was planning to buy his Long Island estate for the Duke of Windsor. Leeds, here aboard his yacht, said Rodman Wamsamaker entertained the Duke at the estate when he was Prince of Wales, before Leeds acquired it.

Fraser Valley Old Timer Dies

New Westminster, May 14.—A funeral service for the late David D. Anderson, pioneer resident of the Fraser Valley, will be held here Saturday afternoon. Mr. Anderson, who arrived at Moodyville, on the south shore of Burrard Inlet, fifty years ago, died Tuesday.

He is survived by the widow, three sons and two daughters, John A. Anderson of Victoria is a son.

Letter Threats Lead to Trial

Harrisburg, Pa., May 14.—United States secret service agents arrested a man docketed as William S. Anderson, fifty-nine, of Waynesboro, Pa., on a charge of sending two threatening letters to President Roosevelt. Arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner S. J. Zarger of Waynesboro, Anderson was released under $2,500 bonds for a hearing May 18.

PEACE NEAR IN MOVIE STRIKE

Final Vote on Hollywood Settlement Plan Expected Tonight

Hollywood, Cal., May 14.—Peace in the film studio craftsmen's strike appeared near today as union leaders weighed a new proposal by producers. If the offer is approved by officials, the rank and file of the Federated Motion Picture Crafts will meet tonight to vote on final acceptance.

"That a quick end of the two weeks' walkout is 'virtually certain' was admitted by union conferees. They debated settlement terms for four hours last night. It was understood the terms would send all strikers back to work and refer controversial points to the National Labor Relations Board. Union recognition is the prime demand.

Meanwhile, Capt. William F. Hynes of the police riot squad announced he had been informed "fifty gangsters have been imported by rival labor factions." He promised to "drive them out." Little violence has marked the strike.

Fewer Refugees For Gibraltar

Some Spaniards There Now Will Be Asked to Leave

Gibraltar, May 14.—Spaniards asking refuge here have been warned they may have to leave. All permits for the residence of aliens are being strictly reviewed with a view to their reduction to an absolute minimum. Arrangements, however, will be made to transport refugees with Spanish government sympathies to territory not controlled by the insurgents.

An official statement says Governor Sir Charles Harington is "gravely concerned at the large number of Spaniards at present residing in Gibraltar."

"They are causing serious overcrowding to the detriment of British subjects who are unable to find accommodations," the statement says. "There is also evidence a danger that this considerable overcrowding may cause an epidemic which would not only menace the civil community, but if it spread to the garrison, would impair the efficient defence of the fortress."

SHOTS ARE FIRED IN CZECH HOUSE

Praha, Czechoslovakia, May 14.—The Czechoslovakian House of Deputies was thrown into tumult yesterday afternoon when a man suddenly arose in the spectators' gallery and fired a pistol at the ministerial bench.

"Half of the members of this House are Communists and rascals," he shouted.

Panic ensued until it was learned that all of the bullets had missed their marks.

The man was overpowered by guards and jailed. Later he was identified as a country flour mill worker, Josef Sebec.

KING THANKS MANY FOR AID

Monarch Commends Work of All Who Helped in Coronation

London, May 14.—A statement issued last night by the King thanking all who helped in Coronation arrangements read as follows:

"At the conclusion of the Coronation ceremonies in London, the Queen and I wish to express our deep gratitude to all those who have contributed to their successful accomplishment, both inside and outside Westminster Abbey.

"We know well that the planning no less than the execution of the essential arrangements entailed months of careful preparation and imposed an immense volume of work on all the branches of the public services.

"And I have nothing but praise for the fine bearing and discipline of those representatives of my naval, military and air forces who were on duty. It was a special satisfaction to me that they included so many splendid detachments from the overseas forces whose presence here we all welcome.

POLICE COMMENDED

"On such an occasion as this the duties of the police are extremely arduous. On them rests the double responsibility of making possible the successful fulfilment of the ceremonial programme and of insuring the safety and comfort of a vast concourse of spectators.

"Great credit is due to members of the police forces concerned for the unfailing patience and tact shown by them in the performance of their long and tiring task—a task in which, as usual, they have been assisted by the orderliness and good humor of the crowd themselves.

"The Queen and I wish also to pay tribute to the devoted services given their fellow citizens through the long day by members of voluntary organizations, in particular the St. John Ambulance Brigade, the British Red Cross Association and the Boy Scouts Association.

STREET DECORATION'S

"Finally we would like to say how greatly we admired the decorations in the streets. We congratulate the responsible authorities and householders; and we are touched by the thought that all over the country so much care had been devoted by our people to decorating their homes in celebration of this day.

"For all the help so willingly given to ensure the success of the Coronation ceremonies, the Queen and I tender our heartfelt thanks."

Germany Building Forts Along Baltic

Travemuende, Northern Spa, Is Full of Workers; Guns Behind Summer Shacks at Village

London, May 14.—Germany is constructing great new fortifications along the Baltic coast, it was disclosed yesterday. The new line centres about Lubec Bay, north of Hamburg, and looks northward toward the Nordic countries.

Building of the fortifications was revealed by Germans who related that workers had jammed Travemuende, popular spa near Hamburg, and rooms were at a premium for that reason.

They recounted: "The Priwal, a section of Travemuende, where there are both sea and land lanes facilities, has been designated a submarine harbor. Fortifications have been erected east and west of Travemuende. A seaplane harbor has been constructed at Schulpot and an air drome near Alt-Gartz.

Coast batteries have been imbedded on the heights overlooking the bay eastward from Travemuende. GUNS BEHIND SHACKS

Summer dwellers at Eckernforde have been refused further lease of their little shacks, but the shacks have been left standing. Cannon lurk behind them, residents of the district say.

Fortifications on the Island of Fehmarn, flanked by Kiel and Lubec Bays, can dominate the belt of Langeland, which is Danish water, one reliable informant said.

SINCE LOCARNO ENDED

Germany has been busy fortifying her borders since Chancellor Hitler voided the Locarno Security Pact by marching troops into the demilitarized Rhineland zone in 1936.

Advices in past months have told of "pill box" defences on the west along the Franco-Belgian border; reconstruction of the marine harbor at Heligoland, destroyed by order of the Allies after the Great War; of gun emplacements on that North Sea island; of eastern emplacements, particularly along the Czechoslovakian frontier.

Ex-governor Takes Son From School

Cambridge, Mass., May 14.—A "slur," former Governor James M. Curley said a professor cast on his reputation, cost yesterday—Curley's son, Leo Francis Curley.

Curley said the "slur" was heard during a class discussion of a former mid-western mayor. He said the professor, unnamed, told his class the mayor in question was corrupt but nevertheless the people kept electing him.

"He went on to say in much the same fashion the people would elect Curley mayor of Boston next November," Curley added.

ANTI-JEW RIOTS IN POLISH TOWN

Wave of Violence in Country Feared After Fighting at Brzesc

Warsaw, May 14.—Poland's Jews expressed grave fears today of a national wave of anti-Semitic violence after a night of rioting at the town of Brzesc had demolished Jewish shops, ruined Jewish merchants and left Jewish residents barricaded in their homes.

The Brzesc riots, in which many Jews were beaten, began yesterday evening after a policeman, stabbed in a fight with a Jewish butcher, had died in a hospital.

Through the streets of the town, which is capital of Polesia province, the cry spread "A Jew has killed a policeman."

The rioting continued until 2 o'clock this morning. This noon the government in Warsaw suppressed a National Radical party manifesto demanding "revenge" for the Brzesc killing.

Nevertheless, it was being circulated secretly over all of Poland. Authorities were tight-lipped and the Jews of Brzesc (better known to wartime newspaper readers as Brest-Litovsk) were afraid to talk over the telephone from their barricaded homes.

So far as was known no Jews had been killed up to this noon, but many were injured. Many Jewish shops were demolished and practically all of them looted during the night.

The Imperial Conference

ALTHOUGH TODAY'S PROCEEDINGS on the convening of the Imperial Conference were more in the nature of a family chat and the customary exchange of pleasantries, the opening speech by Premier Baldwin, who is chairman of the gathering, and that of Premier King indicate that foremost places on the agenda will be foreign affairs, defence and its relationship to peace, and economic matters as they concern the Empire in particular and the world in general.

Appropriate and touching references were made to the reign and fine works of the late King George V, covering one-quarter of the present century, and a resolution passed expressing loyalty and devotion to the newly-crowned King George VI and Queen Elizabeth—coupled with the fervent hope that "under Divine Providence Your Majesties may long be spared to strengthen the ties of affection and loyalty which unite all the peoples of the British Commonwealth under the Crown."

Since the last Coronation, of course, many and far-reaching changes have taken place in the status of mutual relationships. Of special significance and importance was that which owed its origin to the famous Balfour declaration at the Imperial Conference of 1926, which laid down the formula that the states of the Commonwealth are "autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the Crown and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations." There followed, as its sequel, the passage into law five years afterward the Statute of Westminster.

As partners in a great enterprise, jointly responsible for the new experiment, Mr. Baldwin expressed the view that the success or failure of that experiment must profoundly influence the future of mankind, for "we believe in agreement as the mainspring, and in democratic institutions as the method of government. We set our trust in them because we think that they are the best means mankind has devised for preserving those things to which we attach supreme value—liberty of the individual, freedom of thought, speech and conscience." The Prime Minister embellished this theme in the following terms:

But because of this we do not underestimate the value of that idea to which other ways of government attach supreme importance—the idea of service to the state. We ought, I think, constantly to remember this necessary aspect of life in a community, that individual rights require to be completed by the fulfilment of duties to the community. And what is true of a community of individuals is equally true of a community of nations.

With all this in mind, the continuity through change gaining strength as a distinctive quality of British institutions, Prime Minister MacKenzie King contrasted the freedom of thought, the liberty of the individual and all the other advantages enjoyed by the peoples of the Empire, with what had been lost in other lands under the driving force of new social dogmas, combined with old ambitions for dominance and glory. In these cases the increasing demands of the all-powerful state had to be satisfied—individual political liberty had been destroyed.

Mr. King observed, however, that in nations where the struggle for political freedom and equality had been substantially won it was perhaps natural that in the wake of the war some reaction should have arisen, that the "rights of our fathers" and the institutions they built up often came to be taken for granted or regarded as worn out . . . and sometimes it was contended that insistence upon a full measure of self-government was quibbling about academic constitutional issues of little practical importance." The Prime Minister concluded by expressing the conviction that today such doubts had passed, and now that the stark contrast between liberty and regimentation had been made manifest to all, the value of freedom as a source of individual self-realization of national power and enduring international co-operation had been more fully realized than ever before.

The foregoing brief extracts from the observations of the Prime Ministers of Great Britain and Canada, the Dominions ranking first and second in the Commonwealth, followed as they were by concurring observations by the representatives of the other British countries assembled round the conference table, furnish convincing proof that the vast domain of which the newly-crowned King is the titular head is in complete accord in all matters of vital concern to the Commonwealth.

Mrs. D. R. Ker

MRS. D. R. KER, NEWS OF WHOSE death in London was brought by cable yesterday, made very real contributions to the community life of Victoria during her long residence here. She was widely known, not only on the island but throughout the province. On all sides she commanded the highest respect and affection. Her good works redounded to the benefit of a number of our leading public institutions, in the welfare of which she interested herself. But her outstanding contribution, of course, was the family of two daughters and two sons, in whom are continued the personal qualities of a worthy mother and a father who was eminent in Victoria during the early years of this century.

Geniuses Not Born Queer

IF MEN OF GENIUS ARE ECCENTRIC or insane, it is not because all geniuses are born queer, but possibly because of lack of understanding in their education and family life. Such is the conclusion of Dr. Harvey Zorbaugh, director of the Clinic for the Social Adjustment of the Gifted, New York University.

Among a hundred gifted children whose development is being watched at the clinic, five are so extremely gifted as to be clearly in the class of potential genius. In terms of IQ, these children all score at or above 180; a "normal" score is 100. One child registered 204 on this mental scale; the others were respectively 180, 190, 196 and 200. Such genius is rare, Dr. Zorbaugh said, to be found in probably not more than twenty-four out of each million public school children.

In three generations of the five families of these children under observation at the clinic there is but one relative who may be suspected of a psychotic episode. The mother of one child was eccentric although it had never been necessary to put her in a hospital. All the other relatives seem to be, or to have been, normally adjusted and stable personalities. All the families are long lived and have good health histories. At present these young prodigies are tall, healthy children ranging in age from five to fifteen—all of them normal mentally, physically and emotionally, and well adjusted socially.

"We cannot predict the futures of these children," Dr. Zorbaugh said. "So far, they and their families have had, careful guidance. The children have all had unusually fortunate educational experiences. If, as they grow older they become unstable, we believe it will be due to the clinic's inability to control the hazards of development to which such children are exposed."

If, as Dr. Zorbaugh suggests, society showed the interest in its children of genius that it shows in its idiots, it might be possible to speak more confidently. Millions of dollars yearly are spent for research and education on the feeble-minded. An equal amount invested in gifted and talented children would yield an immeasurably rich return—in a deeper understanding of the nature of giftedness and talent, in the increased social productivity of the gifted elements of our human population.

Without An "E"

A 50,000 - WORD NOVEL, COMPLETE with plot, characters, and conversation, without once using the letter "e," has been written by a man in a Los Angeles soldiers' home. He may not have added much to the world's great literature, but he has at least performed a literary stunt that must have looked almost impossible.

Try to write an ordinary sentence without using that letter, and see how hard it is. Then imagine writing a whole book that way, and we begin to get some idea of the difficulties involved.

If someone objects that this bit of work must have been more stunt than novel, it can only be said that the same thing is true of about two-thirds of the so-called novels that get published these days. Since most of them are written for almost any reason under the sun except the desire to create something of real literary merit, why is this Los Angeles man's motive not as good as any?

Playtime, Deathtime

SIX-YEAR-OLD ARNOLD HOWSE of Penticton, lost an eye last week while "playing soldiers." A playmate thrust a wooden sword into his eye.

That item from The Enderby, B.C., Commoner may serve as a timely warning to many. Playtime is here. Youngsters are getting out of doors. Little boys with little red wagons will need be careful lest they run under wheels of trucks, bicycle riders lest they tip over in the path of on-coming cars.

It will not be long before the roads and beaches and lakes will be calling to grown-ups. Extra precautions should be used. Brakes should be used more than horns. Seats in boats should be used more than floor boards. First aid kits should be carried in place of hope that no one will be hurt. Summertime is a glorious time. Let every one this year determine that his or her carelessness will not make of playtime—death time.

Notes

The law has no patience with pickpockets of any kind unless they are disguised as slot machines.

A scientist assures us it is impossible to give anybody one's cold after the third day. For that matter we cannot even throw it away.

"Snake bites claim 23,000 natives of India." This news is not hard to believe, as there are no flask hip-pockets in sheets.

The consumer, a utility executive points out, will determine how far a strike shall go, and how much money shall be taken by the government in taxes. A clumsy, dumb, torpid fellow is the consumer, but when finally aroused, he is irresistible.

"Salting" of mines by promoters who allow their greed to outrun their discretion is not a British Columbia monopoly. Quebec has a case similar to our Hedley Amalgamated affair. An inquiry by the Securities Act registrar has upheld a claim by Ontario Securities Commissioner Godfrey that assay samples of the Rubec Mines in northern Quebec had been "salted." Assistant Attorney-General Asselin of Quebec has recommended prosecution of the person responsible, just as Premier Pattullo has proceeded here with the order for the arrest of three men connected with Hedley Amalgamated.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

PILGRIMAGE TO CANTERBURY

AS I WAS GOING TO CANTERBURY, down the green lanes of Kent, through billows of white blossom, down the Pilgrims' Way, where Chaucer went in the spring, down to the shrine of "the glorious saints" on the well-trodden road that has borne most of the history of England—as I was going down to Canterbury I met a street cleaner at a village cross-roads.

He was Irish, with a round, genial face and a round, genial brogue. "Oh, sure," said he, "you're on the right road to Canterbury, but Havin' alone could tell it, 'he way they're after buildin' roads in this country. It's American you are? Canadian? No matter, 'tis the same stick you're tarred with."

"Ah, sure," said he, "and I love the Americans—scattery people, all crazy and brave and—and what is it the pictures are in the cinema? Colossal! That's it—colossal! Sure, they're after doin' things over there. They have the brains—and the guts, too—and we have no. It's a stupid, good-for-nothin' lot we are and no mistake. Keep on this crazy road, sir, and you'll get to Canterbury—if you want to. Goodbye!"—he paused for a suitable Americanism—"goodbye, baby!"

MOTHER OF ENGLAND

AND THUS I came to Canterbury, the Mother of England, the chief shrine of our race, the birthplace, you might almost call it, of the British people, that stupid, good-for-nothing people which the Irish street sweeper deplores. Here is where our Caesar landed before Christ was born and gave us the beginning of our British culture. Here the Saxons mixed with the Britons before the Conquest. Here St. Augustine established Christianity in Britain in the pagan church of King Ethelbert. Here, after 1,400 years, is still the centre of the Church of England, but something much greater, above creed and denomination, belonging to the whole race.

Mother of England they call Canterbury—fertile, untiring mother of a prolific breed in this land and in a hundred lands across the sea, well-loved mother whose children, through the centuries have come back here in every generation, on foot, by train, coach and now by automobile, to see the enduring wonder of her, to take old wisdom and new nourishment from her ancient breast.

High above her crooked, narrow old streets broods her three-towered cathedral of the sainted Becket, a work of stone so intricate, so richly carved, so delicate and fragile to look upon that you would think it had sprouted out of the soil, a growth infinitely lush and succulent, like a surge of spring wind and spring bloom. You would think that only nature and not the hands of man could build it, that a spring breeze might make it sway and ripple and a winter rain batter it back into the earth.

ORNAMENT

WILLIAM OF SENS, the Frenchman, and William the Englishman, followed the sound rule that you may ornament construction, but you must not construct ornament. They ornamented almost every inch of construction, from the foundations of the tower to the spires, so that the whole is one vast, swarming sculpture—the work of ages, burned, destroyed, pillaged, again and again, but always sprouting up afresh, richer than ever.

It is huge and mighty, but it is above all a monument to happiness and the joy of the Christian religion. Wholesome laughter is written all over it, chuckles and twinkles in stone. St. Paul's is joyous too, but with a more ornate, Winchester staid and sad, Salisbury zealous and stern, with a lean finger pointing to the sky; York huge and a little arrogant. But Canterbury is pure joy, the joy of Christian hope, the work of men who believed in immortality and worked here into stone the promise that they felt in their own hearts.

With incredible patience they worked, laboring over every stone, carving each as a master piece, fitting the whole together in a splendid chaos of detail, a superb simplicity in the whole, worked year after year, not for wages, not for bread, but for something which would utter their inner thoughts to the world. Mother of England is this indeed, with all the solid strength and the sudden poetry of the British character caught and held in stone, all the strange conflicts of light and shade in our nature, fixed forever here so that her sons can see and understand.

SOURCE

INSIDE, the cathedral has might and dignity, but cheer also, like a genial old philosopher. Grim deeds have been done here. Beckett was stabbed to death on this pavement by four knightly fiends of the second Henry. In this crypt the king was scourged with three lashes each by eighty monks, and fasted all night for his crime. On this stone floor, worn into ridges by the knees of countless pilgrims, the wooden coffin of the martyr stood and worked its miracles of healing. Here it was destroyed, its precious jewels stolen, its bones burned and scattered to the winds by the eighth Henry.

Grim deeds, but they are long past and Canterbury now fills the Christian's heart not with fear, but with delight.

This morning the women of the town had piled the altar high with spring blossoms, with pale blossoms and wild red currants and bluebells that made the nave heavy with the perfume of the Kentish lanes. Outside, the pigeons, nesting in the precious carvings of the walls, cooed their love songs. The spring sun slanted down through the vivid reds and blues of the pictured windows as through jewels, the carvings of every stone into bold relief, gilded on the brass effigy of the Black Prince, on his dark helmet and gloves, on the rest of three black plumes, his motto, "I Serve."

PRAISE

PRESENTLY the great organ began to play. It played the doxology, "Praise Him, From Whom All Blessings Flow." The music seemed to roll down those vast corridors, swirl up among the groined arches and break against the carved ceilings like a great wave from the sea.

On the way back from Canterbury I stopped again beside the Irish street sweeper. "Have you ever been to Canterbury?" I said. "It's what you said about the Americans—colossal. The English," I said, looking him in the eye, "the good-for-nothing, stupid English built Canterbury." "Ah, sure," said he, and began to laugh, "when we've a mind to it, we're after gettin' things done in our own stupid way. But we take our time. Especially," he added, "about straightenin' out this road here."

ANOTHER GRAND SLAM BY CULBERTSON

From The New York Post

Ely Culbertson, president and treasurer of Kem Playing Cards, Inc., in a transaction involving more than $1,000,000, has sold control to Theodore W. Herbert and associates, represented by the Kem Card Sales Corporation, organized for that purpose.

Kem Playing Cards, Inc., putting out a chemical pasteboard said, among other things, to "cheatproof," was started with an original investment of $5,000. Culbertson said he was glad to divest himself of control of the card company, as it would give him more time for promoting and writing about bridge. However, Culbertson retains all rights and patents outside the United States.

AN ORCHID FOR BRUCE

To the Editor:—This is no sycophantic tribute to your staff correspondent in London whose recent jocular and ironical thrust about English pulchritude, puddings and plumbing I parried and followed up with a light riposte. That by way of introduction, and now to my subject matter.

A citizen of no mean city may I be permitted to express the opinion, shared by many, that you and your correspondent are to be congratulated not only on the excellent series of articles relating to Great Britain, recently and currently appearing in your journal, but on the Coronation broadcast by Bruce Hutchison from London. The distinction achieved by him is shared by the Victoria Daily Times and the city and province in which it circulates.

In a profoundly pregnant sentence your commentator gave a remarkably deft, concise and just summary of the reaction of that vast and tumultuous crowd at that brilliant spectacle of medievalism and modernity—the Coronation procession. I quote: "There is something here which cannot be put into print or conveyed over the radio."

Ah, yes, there is indeed "something here," something connected with that unforgettable day, which an inscrutable destiny may yet interpret in a manner unequivocally intelligible to the world. It is a task no living litterateur can ever hope to achieve. G. H. JENNINGS.

TWO MISSING WORDS

To the Editor:—The cabled press report of the King's speech omitted two important words in the sentence "and those who are living under the shadow of sickness and distress"—the last words. As I had expected some reference to the distressed areas, in some sort of way, I noted those words in the morning broadcast. I listened in again at 6.40, to make sure I had not been mistaken and I heard him again say "and distress," which were not in your report.

As the King has for many years, when a prince unlikely to come to the throne, made an intelligent and humane study of working conditions and supported all measures for betterment of the workers, to him it is an important omission.

THE BIBLE AND GEOLOGY

To the Editor:—In a letter headed "From an Uncompromising Fundamentalist" the author affirmed that "all the natural changes on the earth in the past were caused by the flood recorded in Genesis."

May I say that it is quite possible to be more heedful of the findings of science than your correspondent is and still be an uncompromising fundamentalist. In the first words of Genesis we read that "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth," and from other passages we can deduce that when God creates, His work is beautiful and perfect. In the second verse of the first chapter of Genesis we read "And the earth (note, not the heaven also this time) was (or became) without form and void" and again we can deduce from other passages that between the time of the primeval creation in beauty and perfection of the first verse, and the without form and void, or waste and desolate condition of the second verse lies a whole history, now almost lost to us, and a period of time quite indefinite as far as any scriptural statement is concerned. Here then is ample room for all findings of science and there is no need to make trouble for ourselves by supposing the scriptures to be out of line with science. A writer on these subjects has said "the crust of our earth appears to be a vast mound which God has heaped over the remains of many creations. And geology shows us that the creatures of these ancient worlds either perished by painful disease and mutual destruction, or were overwhelmed in an instant by the most terrific convulsions of nature." P.E.I. TO GO WEST?

From The Sydney Post-Record

The Charlottetown Guardian hints that Premier Campbell is considering the inauguration of a scheme of government liquor control for Prince Edward Island, the only province still remaining in the prohibition category. Every plebiscite so far held in the Island province on the question has resulted in a decisive majority against repeal of the "dry" law, which has been in force for forty years. But the Guardian suggests that the government may decide to go "wet" without consulting the people, and, as there is no opposition in the Island's 100 per cent Liberal Legislature, no awkward questions are likely to be tabled by way of threat or warning.

Better English

By D. C. WILLIAMS

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "Charles will be back home next Tuesday." 2. What is the correct pronunciation of "Aladdin?" 3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Sacrifice, sacrilege, sacrament.

4. What does the word "vacuous" mean? 5. What is a word beginning with "s" that means "lasting seven years?"

Answers

1. Say, "Charles will return home next Tuesday." 2. Pronounce a-lad-in, first a as in ask unstressed, second a as in lad, i as in icy. second syllable. 3. Sacrament. 4. Empty; unfilled; void; vacant. "That the few may lead selfish and vacuous days."—J. Morley. 5. Septennial.

FORTY SEEKING ISLAND SEATS

Final List of Nominations Shows 187 Candidates For 48 Places in House

As nominations for the forty-eight seats in the B.C. Legislature in the province's forty riding were tabulated by the deputy provincial secretary, chief electoral officer, a total of 187 candidates standing for office was shown today. This is twenty-three less than in 1933.

Of these, forty are contesting the nine seats on Vancouver Island, eighteen being in Victoria, six in Saanich and five in Esquimalt.

The final nominations by parties show Liberals, forty-eight; B.C. Conservatives, fourteen; C.C.F., forty-five; Conservatives, forty-three; others, nineteen.

In only three ridings is the election a straight two-candidate fight. In Cranbrook, held by Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, and in Skeena, held by E. T. Kenney, Skeena, the government candidates and the C.C.F. will fight it out, and in Fernie, Thomas Uphill, Labor man who has C.C.F. support, will have a single Liberal as his opponent.

All other members of the Cabinet have from two to as high as fourteen opponents, as in the multiple riding of Victoria.

Following are the proposers, seconders and assentors of the Saanich and Esquimalt candidates:

SAANICH

Andrew Henry Jukes, D.S.O., O.B.E., farmer, Mt. Newton Cross-roads (Social Credit), proposed by Rev. O. L. Jull and seconded by W. Douglas. Assentors: J. P. Biggs, Mrs. A. C. Boydell, Daniel Dyer, J. SOUND TRADE POLICY URGED

Three Liberal Candidates Outline Position of Province

A balanced view-point in dealing with trade, the welfare of the island, and the humanities was claimed as one of the chief virtues of the Liberal government by Byron Johnson, Alderman W. T. Straith and Mrs. H. P. Hodges yesterday evening at a meeting of Ward Two Liberal Association in Quadra Street School.

During the Conservative regime, Mrs. Hodges said, too many measures were false economies, social services being cut down at a time when their need was greatest. The reduction of the hospital grants was not an economy but, in the end, a hardship on the hospitals and the municipalities.

Today, with the hospital grants restored, a scheme was being worked out by which indigents could be removed from the over-burdened hospitals to homes, resulting in a reduction of cost and an increase in efficiency.

Speaking of the improvements in homes for the delinquent, Mrs. Hodges said that achievements meant more than promises, and that she was sure re-election of the Liberal government would mean a broadening of the social services.

One of the major questions being asked, Alderman Straith said, was "How is Victoria going to increase payrolls in the next few years?" Largely because Victoria was seeking it, Victoria had more than the average share of the $200,000,000 tourist business in Canada. The provincial government was assisting through the Department of Provincial Information, attracting tourists and residents, and giving excellent help to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

A grant of $2,500 this year would go entirely to advertising the island, Mr. Straith said, and for the seventy-fifth anniversary celebrations a cheque for $25,000 had been received.

The Liberal government, both through the grants and through development of the island, was doing all it could to bring tourists here. Byron Johnson, after briefly commending the present cabinet, discussed the unfavorable balance of trade between eastern and western Canada.

"To the manufacturers of 90 per cent of the goods we use in British Columbia, we pay a huge subsidy in the guise of protection," he said. "In a six-year period we have had an unfavorable trade balance with Quebec and Ontario of $193,000,000. We have been using our resources to make up the balance, but we cannot afford to continue unless we get some return."

He advocated a trade and commerce department in the provincial government to set British Columbia trade with the rest of Canada in working order.

Mr. Johnson warned that it might be necessary, if eastern manufacturers failed to recognize the position of British Columbia in relation to trade, to encourage the people of the province to purchase in markets of countries favorable to the province. Charles Copeland, former president of Ward Four Association, spoke briefly, and Dr. H. Clarke presided.

For more than half a century, Cherrapunji, in Assam, India, has been credited with having the heaviest rainfall in the world. Latest figures, however, show that for a five-year period an average of 499 inches of rain has fallen annually in Manayuram, also in Assam.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

(From The Times Files)

In the passing of the Field Street extension from Douglas to Government Street through the City Council last evening, the unusual spectacle was witnessed of an alderman leaving his seat and going outside the barrier, Alderman Beard taking this course, being interested in the proposed expropriation.

The membership of the local Y.M.C.A. now totals in the neighborhood of 850, of whom about 500 are adult members. During the month of April over forty fresh names were secured and during this present month already Mr. Small, the membership secretary, has been able to add to the total about twenty-five members.

In common with the other sections of the city, through the water shortage, the Central and Boys' schools are feeling the shortage, and the children have not had water to drink except through a bucket and dipper.

The City Council has decided to adopt a new plan in connection with cluster lighting to bring the city in harmony with other municipalities. They have decided that in future no petition for cluster lighting shall be granted outside of the business district, and that part of the city bounded by Cook, Humboldt, Courtney, Government and Herald Streets, unless the property owners pay the difference between the ordinary lights and cluster lights and other incidentals in connection with it.

Ceremony Held At Keating

A large crowd attended the ceremony in Temperance Hall Park at Keating on Wednesday. The singing of "O Canada" opened the morning ceremony, after which Reeve W. Crouch gave a short address and hoisted the Union Jack presented to

It's the costliest kind of driving you do!

IF YOU WANT to figure out how much gasoline you waste, don't count the miles, count the stops and starts.

One stop can waste enough gasoline to take you a third of a mile . . . and you average 30 stops every day!

To cut down the high cost of stop-and-go driving, Shell engineers developed a way to "balance" gasoline.

By this revolutionary Shell balancing process, the entire chemical structure of gasoline is rearranged. As a result Super-Shell is made "digestible" for the motor in your car, just as cooking makes some foods digestible for you.

When you're starting, shifting, accelerating—at all times—your motor gets the full benefit of Super-Shell's high energy content.

"Motor-digestible" is the best way to describe this gasoline.

There's a Shell dealer in your neighborhood. Stop there next time you need gas.

Premier Says Government Will Restore Confidence in Mining

Ocean Falls, B.C., May 14.—Premier T. D. Pattullo today took off on the third lap of his aerial campaign tour of British Columbia, leaving with the populace of this coastal town 300 miles north of Vancouver assurance of the Liberal government's wish to "restore public confidence in the mining industry."

At a campaign meeting here last night the Premier said the government, if returned to office, would "see to it the public is not mulched as in the case of Hedley," apparently referring to the market collapse of Hedley Amalgamated Gold Mines stock last February and the resulting government inquiry, which revealed ore at the mine had been salted.

WIDEST PUBLICITY

"We have given this case the widest publicity without the expense of a commission of inquiry as demanded by our critics," the Premier said. He added: "You can't stop people being cooked. You can only try to circumvent them in their nefarious practices."

The Premier reiterated the government's decision that in future the administration of the Securities Act would be divorced from that of the Companies Act.

Mr. Pattullo, accompanied by his secretary, Ben Heathey, and a Vancouver newspaperman in a cabin plane piloted by Captain E. C. W. Dobbin, left Vancouver yesterday morning. He stopped long enough to address a Liberal gathering at Powell River, then flew here for a campaign meeting last night.

At his meeting here the Premier was critical of the Conservative party election platform, branding it as "vague and full of meaningless generalities."

"The Conservatives demand that increase of the public debt must cease, falling obviously to recognize that no growing province can provide sufficient funds from current revenue to develop its resources. 'Instead it must borrow for public improvement. There is no reason why a young province, rich in wealth and natural resources, should not borrow.'"

Mr. Pattullo said the last Conservative government "threw money around like a drunken sailor." It reduced grants to the municipalities by more than $2,000,000 a year. He said the government intended to put the municipalities in a better position than they were before the last Conservative administration started to cripple them."

Conference To Be Great Test

Momentous Meeting After Commission Reports, Says Pattullo

Ocean Falls, B.C. May 14.—"The next conference between the Dominion of Canada and the provinces following, as it will, the report of the national commission on better terms, will be the most momentous conference Canada has ever witnessed since Confederation," Premier Pattullo said here last night.

The Premier was making the second appearance in his aerial election campaign which will take him as far north as Stewart, B.C., before returning to Victoria Sunday. He spoke earlier yesterday at Powell River.

"For this reason," the Premier continued, "it is imperative that the people of British Columbia should give a clear mandate to the Liberal government which knows fully and intimately the problems which such a conference must settle."

Touching briefly on his proposal to join the Yukon Territory with British Columbia, Premier Pattullo said "those who now most vociferously denounce the project would be the first to denounce the government if it passed up such a golden opportunity."

"The next ten years will see more development in the Yukon than during the previous thirty."

The Premier is scheduled to speak in Stewart tonight and in his home constituency of Prince Rupert Saturday night.

The Premier touched briefly on negotiations his government had carried on with the Ottawa administration and declared they had brought new recognition for the west.

In Quebec, he declared, they were following British Columbia in the matter of social legislation, particularly that relating to hours of work and wages.

He concluded his address with a short resume of the government's extensive programme for the year.

Girls' Choir To Present Opera

Dido and Aeneas Will Be Given at High School Saturday

On Saturday evening at 8.15 o'clock in the school auditorium the Girls' Choir of the Victoria High School will present the opera, "Dido and Aeneas."

For some weeks the cast, under the direction of Stanley Bulley, has been working hard on this production.

It is a short opera of the time of ancient Greece, with costumes and scenery in the classical manner and with classical simplicity. All parts are being portrayed by girls. That of "Dido" is being played by Elsie George, "Aeneas" by Mildred Duncan, "Belinda," the first lady-in-waiting to Queen Dido will be acted by Ruby Webster. The chief sorceress, surrounded by her witches, will be portrayed by Frances Wallace.

Miss Ella Cameron will act as co-director with Mr. Bulley. Costumes are under the care of Miss Swanson of the staff, while the scenery and stage are under the direction of Mr. Hardie.

Authors Hear Mme. Archibald

French Press Worst in Europe and Few of Its Magazines Are Good

The French press was the worst in Europe from the literary point of view, the French short stories were excelled by the English, and there were few good French magazines, but for many reasons, Madame H. M. Archibald told the Victoria and Islands Branch, Canadian Authors' Association, at a meeting yesterday evening.

A writer might find in French literature a different art of composition, she said, besides orderly construction and a scientific analysis of sentiment.

Mme. Archibald described the French Academy and its two main purposes: To serve pure language and to write an unending dictionary.

Mrs. Floris Clark McLaren received the congratulations of the association on winning the Women's Canadian Club short story award.

Mrs. F. E. Breach gave a short talk on short story writing. It was noted that a song, "Spring's Triumph," by Mrs. Frances Ebbes-Canavan, had been sung by Barry Sherwood from a British Broadcasting Corporation station.

In the absence of the president, Miss Eugenie Perry, the chair was occupied by Mrs. E. G. Ferne, vice-president.

Mrs. W. L. Morgan spoke in support of the proposed civic theatre here, which would be for the use of local groups and not for commercial profit.

HALF-CENTURY ALUMNI
Paris, Mo., May 14.—The Paris high school fifty years ago graduated a class consisting of three boys and two girls. Hale and hearty, all have made plans to attend the annual reunion of the alumni association this year, probably the only complete fifty-year-old graduating class in the United States.

TORONTO CORONER DIES
Toronto, May 14.—Dr. M. M. Crawford, chief coroner of Toronto and supervising coroner for Ontario, died at his home here early today. He had been ill but a short time.

Dash to Spain To End in Wedding

Lord Redesdale's
Daughter To Marry Romilly

Bayonne, France, May 14.—The "love and war" romance of two young members of prominent British families headed for the altar today.

An official of the British consulate said Esmond Romilly, eighteen-year-old nephew of Winston Churchill, and Hon. Jessica Freemantle, daughter of Lord Redesdale, probably would be married Tuesday.

Their mothers will come to Bayonne for the wedding, where both have established residence. The consular official said the marriage would be performed by Consul Paul Archedein.

The British destroyer Echo brought the young couple to France from Bilbao, Spain, on March 10.

British consuls had searched for them at the behest of Lord Redesdale after they were suspected of having attempted to elope by going to Bilbao. Romilly also intended to join the international brigade in Madrid, the rumor had it. Both declared, however, they had gone to Bilbao merely as reporters for English newspapers.

Eight-hour Day For Wives

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt's Suggestion
Variably Received

Washington, May 14.—Husbands and wives propounded a one-word question today in reply to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's advocacy of an eight-hour day for housewives.

"How?" they asked in unison.

"What if the baby has the colic?" suggested Mrs. Blay Banister, assistant United States treasurer.

Several agreed in theory with Mrs. Roosevelt's statement that "a woman who works to give her children the necessities and some of the advantages of life should have her work day limited to eight hours."

But Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the Idaho senator, and Mrs. Daniel A. Reed of Dunkirk, N.Y., president of the Congressional Club, said they did not believe a housewife's day could be limited unless she had trained servants.

Mrs. Banister acknowledged the desirability of easing up things for the ordinary housewife.

"But I don't quite see how the work of a home can be measured in hours," she said. "I don't think a woman in a million would quit after eight hours if her daughter needed the new dress she was making for a party the next day."

Mrs. Roosevelt's comment that she sometimes thinks a wife who does all the housework should be paid a salary proved varied response.

"I think most wives get as much salary as they deserve from their husbands," said Mrs. Borah.

"I wouldn't want a salary," said Mrs. Reed. "I look at marriage as a partnership."

U.E. L. to Hold House Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Adams, 1790 Beach Drive, have kindly invited the United Empire Loyalists to hold their annual summer meeting at their home tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, at which Mr. J. B. Clearhouse will deliver an address entitled "Canada's Place in the Empire." There will be a number of musical selections, followed by refreshments.

Tag Day to Buy Cod Liver Oil

Mrs. Frederick Chas. Hawkins, the former Miss Daisy Robbins, whose wedding took place at the Metropolitan Church last Saturday.

Society

Mrs. E. F. Cooke of Vancouver, who has been spending the last few days in Victoria with friends, has returned to her home on the mainland.

Mrs. Richard Spilsbury of Kelowna, B.C., has arrived in the city on a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. Allan Fraser, 5012 Quadra Street.

Miss Anne Sherwood, Quadra Street, will leave for Vancouver shortly on a visit to her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sherwood.

Mrs. Francis Bowser of Vancouver and her daughter, Mrs. Ingram, who have been guests at the Empress Hotel during their visit here, have returned to their homes on the mainland.

Miss Eugenie Sullivan will leave Victoria on Sunday for a lengthy visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. W. A. McDougall, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Mr. Lawrence Denton of the Imperial Bank of Canada staff, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Denton, has been transferred to Vancouver to the head offices of the bank.

In honor of Mrs. W. A. Deer of New York, who is spending the summer as a guest at Cherry Bank, Mrs. A. E. McKicking entertained with a few tables of bridge this afternoon at her home on Linden Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Simms (nee Sehl), returned to Victoria this morning from a trip to California, and will spend a few days with Mrs. Simms' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sehl, Wark Street, before proceeding to their home at Royston.

Owing to a bereavement in the family, the bride who which Canons Chapter, I.O.D.E., had arranged to hold tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. V. Campbell and Miss Sylvester, Fort Street, has been canceled.

Miss Lena Hanson, First Street, is leaving on Sunday for Vancouver, en route to New York, and will be away several months, visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Altmann, also relatives near West Point.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Bapty, Pemberton Road, left this afternoon for Vancouver to attend there this evening the graduation exercises of the Training School for Nurses, the Vancouver General Hospital, of which their daughter, Miss Ann Bapty, is one of this year's graduates.

Mrs. E. R. Taylor of Vancouver returned to her home on the mainland at the beginning of this week after spending a few days here with her mother, Mrs. A. O'Meara, Gorge Road, who returned to Victoria a few weeks ago from Vancouver to spend the summer months here.

Mrs. J. M. Mercer of Vancouver, Mr. Robert Kendall Mercer and Mr. Alan Spencer of Vancouver came over from the mainland this afternoon for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Allan and Mr. Robert Kendall Mercer, that will take place at Christ Church Cathedral tomorrow afternoon.

The many friends of Mrs. Harold Trenchard of Seattle, who has been a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, will be glad to learn that she has so far recovered as to be able to leave the institution and is now recuperating at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. M. Aubrey Kent, 228 Douglas Street.

Miss Nellie Mitchell was the guest of honor last evening at a presentation shower given by Mrs. J. Chapman Jr., and Miss Nellie Lofts at Miss Lofts' home on Selkirk Street.

On her arrival, the bride-elect was given a fragrant corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and pink rosebuds. Later the guests conveyed best wishes to Miss Mitchell, together with their gift of a handsome Kenwood reversible blanket wrapped in the Coronation colors. Quantities of narcissi were used in decoration of the reception rooms. Games were played and later a buffet supper was served from a table with an attractive centerpiece composed of red tulips and narcissi in a low vase. The invited guests were Mrs. W. G. Mitchell, Mrs. A. H. Lofts, Mrs. P. T. Scafe, Mrs. G. Barker, Mrs. E. Miller, Mrs. Lillian Taylor, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. W. Yeaman, Mrs. Ball, and Miss Evelyn Pollock.

Lillian Laird, Violet Rowlands, Doris Smith, Mary Laird, Ina Mitchell, Jessie Oliver, Eva Cross, Ella Mitchell, Kathleen Barker, Elsie Robinson, Violet James and Jeanette Millar.

Miss Jessie Jones, a popular bride-elect, was the guest of honor when Mrs. H. Rumsby and Mrs. J. Walsh entertained jointly at a miscellaneous shower last night at Mrs. Rumsby's home on McKenzie Street. As she entered the room, which was gay with tulips, narcissi and blue-bells carrying out the Coronation colors, Miss Jones was presented with a lovely bouquet of pink tulips and fern. The many pretty and useful gifts were found in a "wishing well" decorated with crepe paper in the color scheme of red, white and blue.

The guests played cards and games during the evening. The supper table, covered with a dainty white cloth, was centred with red tulips in a cutglass bowl and lighted by red tapers in matching scones. Those present were Mesdames T. C. Jones, W. J. Hooper, W. Brown, J. B. Dron, G. Hays, H. Winfield, W. H. Carter, J. Dixon, W. Clark, J. Barrister, G. Williams, W. Cott, Burnett, R. Brown, Davis, and Misses Isabel Dron, Lillian Hawthorne, Tina McKinnon, Jessie Dron, Brenda Carter, Mabel Hawthorne, Marguerite Elliott, Jean Burnett, Bessie Crother and Florence Jones.

Among the guests registered at the Dominion Hotel are: Mr. W. E. Mack, Vancouver; Mr. A. Morgan, Vancouver; Mr. J. W. Gillies, Vancouver; Mr. G. A. Guigley, Vancouver; Mr. N. D. McPhee, Vancouver; Mr. F. E. Lofting, Vancouver; Mr. K. Grant, Vancouver; Mr. R. J. Chapman, Vancouver; Mr. L. N. Paynter, Vancouver; Mr. J. B. Love, Vancouver; Mr. H. Boyes, Vancouver; Mr. P. P. Clement, Vancouver; Mr. B. B. Lesson, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Shaw, Fulford Harbor; Mr. A. Hogan, Ganges; Misses Lynn and Roberta Coles, Los Angeles.

Many Tots In Solarium In April

Seventy Patients Treated,
Report Shows

Seventy patients were receiving treatment in the Queen Alexandra Solarium during April, according to the monthly report presented by the medical superintendent, Dr. Glenn Simpson.

His analytical report shows: Admissions 6; discharges 8; physiotherapy treatments 222 (from April 22 to 30); X-ray examinations 16; X-ray treatments 4; consultations 6; operations 5.

"Activities at the Solarium during the past month have been routine in character. The average number of admissions has been maintained and the institution has had practically 100 per cent occupancy. The utmost co-operation has been received from all departments, thus facilitating the carrying out of all treatments with care and celerity," the report continues.

The health of all children has been excellent throughout the month. We have been quite free of communicable diseases."

St. Columba Social—The church committee of St. Columba, Strawberry Vale, entertained parishioners and residents in the district to a Coronation social on Monday evening in Strawberry Vale Hall, Burnside Road. The hall was suitably decorated with flags, Coronation streamers and an abundance of beautiful flowers. Ladies of the committee in charge of refreshments were the Misses E. and K. Brown, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. W. Foster. During the evening, games, dances and contests followed in quick succession and were arranged by men of the committee. Vocal solos were delightfully rendered by Miss Elsie Fryatt, accompanied by Mrs. Mead. Canon S. G. Wickens gave a brief talk on the Coronation and its real meaning and was heartily applauded.

Community Club—The Coronation social and dance held by the members of the Esquimalt Community Club on Monday evening in the Macaulay Golf Club proved to be one of entertainment and fun for all present. Dancing was enjoyed to music by a band of four local boys. Entertainment in the form of patriotic dances was furnished by Miss H. Burgess who gave a Highland dance; Miss L. Doull danced the Irish jig and to complete the picture the "The Coronation Games" was given by Master Burgess. All were accompanied by Miss Lillian Grant on the pipes. Games and competitions were won by the following: "Stop Dance," Mrs. W. Aldridge and Master J. Aldridge; "The Coronation Games," Miss Frances Creed and Mr. Pat O'Brien; musical chairs, Eva Aldridge; "Walk the Line," Miss Betty Fawcett and S. Waldron; football, the men. During the refreshment interval Mr. James McVie sang "The Rose of Tralee" and "Will You Remember Me" from "Maytime." The club will hold its monthly whist drive at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman 1307 Lyle St., on Saturday, May 29.

Mental Cases Show Sad History

Psychiatrist Tells Tragedy Of Sub-normal Girls

Associated Press

Pittsburgh, May 14.—A record of human misery and cruelty seldom equalled, crowding out of what happened to 102 young women with mental troubles released from detention by court order against medical advice, was reported to the American Psychiatric Association here yesterday by Leo Kanner, M.D., of Baltimore.

The record covers twenty-six years. Already the 102 he said have given birth to "108 children who are without question feeble-minded." He gave documentary evidence in many of the cases. Most of the young women were released on writs of habeas corpus and all of them from the Rosewood School, in Maryland.

Only thirteen, he said, have adjusted their lives in a manner which brought no serious damage to themselves or others. Eighty-nine have been in serious difficulties; twenty-nine became prostitutes; six served prison terms; seventeen acquired communicable diseases.

Fifty-one married, producing 165 children, but thirty-three of these were born out of wedlock.

To anyone except medical men most of these girls could have passed not only in a crowd but on fairly close inspection as persons with little, if anything, wrong. Thus, Dr. Kanner said, fifty-three of them were released to women who wanted cheap servants. Most of the women did not realize that they were dealing with mental incompetents.

This resulted in most cases in the girls being "fired" without resources. The whole social picture of what happened to these girls is suggested by a detailed record of the types of husbands that forty-eight of them married.

"A study," said Dr. Kanner, "of the husbands' backgrounds, personalities and behavior shows that not one of them can be considered as endowed with normal or near-normal intelligence."

"Making every permissible allowance, we are ready to speak of ten of the men as relatively stable and responsible individuals. All the others were shiftless unemployables."

"One was so lazy that he once burned several pairs of shoes given to his family rather than bring in firewood, and dragged his wife and children from one place to another to find out where more relief money could be obtained."

BAR LIFTS BAN

New York, May 14. (Canadian Press).—A sixty-eight-year-old man against the admission of women to the association of the bar of the City of New York was broken today.

The association decided the word "he" in its constitution was a generic term which could refer to a woman as well as a man and by that simple action declared women eligible to membership.

THIRTEEN BABIES

Winnipeg, May 14.—Winnipeg parents refuse to think thirteen is an unlucky number. They point to thirteen Coronation babies—eight boys and five girls—who entered the world the same day as King George VI was crowned.

HERE is a real test of perfect whiteness—wash your child's little dress with Pearl White Naptha Soap, and compare it with washing done with ordinary soap.

Many similar tests by housewives have proved Pearl washing to be dazzlingly white in contrast. For Pearl drives out all the hidden dirt that ordinary soaps leave behind. You have no hard rubbing or scrubbing with Pearl, and you don't have to redden your hands using very hot water, because Pearl suds are so rich and quick.

You'll like Pearl White Naptha Soap for the sweet, clean smell it brings to your wash—and for its gentleness to both hands and clothes.

D. T. Yacmini, Who Judged

Can Learn From Dominion

Belfast, May 14.—Northern Ireland has much to learn from the young people of Canada, according to D. T.
Yacmini, licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music and one of the judges at the Carrickfergus Festival.

During his visit to Canada, he said, the instrumental work he heard would take one's breath away. On one occasion in Winnipeg, more than 100 competitors took part in the violin and piano classes.

Entries were small in the Instrumental section at the festival and Yacmini confessed he was disappointed with the performances.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOAN BARRETT, heroine, secretary to John Hendry.
JOHN HENDRY, mining investment head.
BOB ANDREWS, Hendry's Junior partner and Joan's fiancé.
SYBIL HENDRY, socialite, John Hendry's niece and Joan's rival in love.
PHILIP HENDRY, Sybil's brother.
DOROTHY STARK, Joan's childhood friend.
CHARLES NORTON, California mining promoter.

Yesterday—Dorothy convinces Joan she should not flee, that her secret is still safe. Then Joan agrees to move with Dorothy to Green Hills.

"He won't. Don't worry. And I'll manage sweet Sybil."

"Let's forget it!" she cried. "Here I felt so happy at finding an old friend in the wilderness, and it turned out I was an Avenging Angel. Believe me, I was scared to death when I saw those bags of yours all packed. Come, let me help you unpack right now. Then we'll go out and celebrate. I'm starving, aren't you?"

"I hadn't thought of it," Joan smiled.

"I hope I wasn't expected to get through the evening on Sybil Hendry's puny hors d'oeuvres." She held up a black velvet dress admiringly, found a hanger for it. "We'll have fun together, Joan. Just like we did in school. Remember old Dribble-Puss with the walrus moustache—the one who tried so hard to teach us geometry? And Senior Ricardo, who recited love poems in Spanish?"

Joan smiled reminiscently.

"How long are you going to stay in the east, Dorothy?" she asked, replacing lingerie in the bureau drawers.

"Two or three months, anyway. Mother and Dad are in Honolulu for the winter, and I'm here for the noble purpose of completing an art course. Maybe I can find a job when I finish. Who knows? Where do I put this negligee?"

"Here's an extra hanger . . . Are you living in Green Hills?"

"Until the Downs' leave for Florida, at any rate." She hung up the negligee carefully, making room for it in the tiny closet. "Goosh, these pokey hotel rooms . . ."

She spun around suddenly, as a new idea occurred to her.

"Say, Joan, why don't you come out and stay there with me while the family's away?"

"At the Downs'?"

"Of course."

Joan hesitated. "I'd feel as if I were intruding . . ."

"Nonsense. Aunt Margaret would love it. She's been worried about leaving me there all alone, and just about as worried about packing me off to a hotel. If you would stay at the house with me, it would solve everything."

"It would be fun," Joan admitted.

"Then it's settled. I'll have Aunt Margaret send you a formal invitation tomorrow . . . Why in the world didn't I think of that before we unpacked everything again?"

CHAPTER XI

Bob returned from California the following Wednesday. Joan had received a note from him that morning saying that he would be delayed a few days, so it was a surprise to pick up the phone and hear his voice. She was in Mr. Hendry's private office.

"Bob!" she cried delightedly, forgetting her business dignity. "Bob!" Then, aside to Mr. Hendry, she announced sedately: "Mr. Andrews is back from California."

"Good!" the old man beamed. "Tell him to come right in . . . Er, no, you go outside and wait for him in your office. Get your Hello's over . . . then send him in to me."

A moment later, Bob bounded through the door, and without a thought for business proprieties, he caught her in his arms.

"I missed you, Joan! It seemed a year."

"I didn't expect you today. Your letter—"

"I caught a special plane. How've you been, darling?"

"Fine. A little lonely, of course. Did the Bella Terra come up to expectations?"

"Pretty nearly. Is J. H. in? I'd better see him."

"He's expecting you."

He put her down unwillingly.

"Have dinner with me?" he suggested.

"With nobody else . . ."

They dined early that evening, at a small downtown hotel.

"I have news for you," Joan announced after a while.

Bob looked across the table, drinking in the exquisite loveliness of her—the golden curls peeping out below the pert little black turban; the blue eyes, radiant and exciting now; the soft cheeks inviting a kiss . . .

"You've found the apartment?"

"No. I haven't really looked for one. I've been too busy moving myself."

"Don't tell me," he said in mock distress, "that you've deserted the Lovely Ladies' Lodging Club. Where did you move?"

"Green Hills."

"To Green Hills? Boy, that's fine! With Sybil?"

Joan shook her head quickly. "No. With an old friend . . ."

She told him of meeting Dorothy at Sybil's tea, and of Mrs. Downs' subsequent invitation. "So," she concluded, "Dorothy and I are living alone in the huge Downs house while the family is in Florida."

Bob smiled approvingly. "At Peter Downs', eh? You're certainly meeting the best people. He's one of the leading attorneys in the city. You say you and this Dorothy Starke went to school together?"

"Yes, in Seattle."

"Seattle?" he repeated in surprise. "You never told me you lived in the west."

"You never asked me," Joan countered, smiling disarmingly.

"No, I guess I didn't. I've always been too busy telling you what a fine fellow I was. I never thought to ask about you."

"Perhaps it's time I told you, then."

She spoke lightly, and even Bob could not detect the serious undercurrent in her voice. "I was born in Sacramento, and later went to Seattle to live. After I left school, we moved—mother and I—to Chicago. Mother died in Chicago, and somehow I hated the city after that. I came to New York as soon as I saved enough money."

Bob listened casually.

"Your father's dead, too, isn't he?" he inquired kindly.

"Yes. He died when I was very young."

She was surprised at the calm manner in which she was able to tell the story. Ordinarily she would have flinched at the very mention of the places. But Dorothy had made her rehearse it, and as Dorothy had pointed out, it was all so very plausible that there was no reason at all to hesitate.

There was her background, simple and straightforward, and if people asked any further questions, she was within her rights in tactfully changing the subject.

"It is so good," she said, realizing how much Dorothy had helped her already. "Having Dorothy here. I've always been lonely in New York."

Bob nodded understandingly. "I imagine you have, dear. New York is a hard place to make friends. I remember when I first came down from Connecticut, I used to talk to myself at nights because I was so lonely. That was until I got the job with Mr. Hendry. He's been fine, Joan. Almost like a father to me. I don't have any folks either, you see. Sybil has been swell to me, too. By the way, how did you enjoy the tea?"

"It was a lovely party, Bob," Joan reported, truthfully enough. "Of course, it was a bit formal, and—well, I'm still in awe of Sybil. And of her friends, too, I guess."

"I know," Bob grinned. "I felt like a bull in a china shop the first few times Sybil entertained me. Everything was so damnably correct. And that fish-faced Jennings watched me like a hawk, as if he suspected I intended to make off with the silver. However, Sybil means well enough."

"You'll like Dorothy, Bob."

He patted her hand, as it lay beside her plate. "If she's a friend of yours, I'll have to like her, won't I?"

Joan smiled. "You don't have to like her."

"Well, I want to. Is that better?"

"Much better." She smiled brightly. "Will you come home with me this evening and meet her?"

"So that I may meet with her approval?"

"Don't be silly, Bob?"

He leaned forward and looked at her more intently. "There's a little detail we must decide first," he said, very quietly.

"What?"

From his coat pocket, he took out a small card calendar. "I asked Mr. Hendry this afternoon if he could spare us both for a week."

Joan's eyes were starry. "What did he say?"

"He asked what was taking me so long."

"So long?"

"That's what he said. He likes people who make up their minds and act immediately. No dilly-dallying . . ."

Joan laughed softly. "It sounds just like him."

"Next Saturday," Bob noted, "is the 30th. But Norton is coming on from the coast some day next week, so there will probably be a few details to iron out concerning the Bella Terra. I'd better be on hand. I may even have to run down to Washington for a day or so. But the next Saturday—well, the Queen of Bermuda sails at 3 o'clock. Do you think Mr. and Mrs. Andrews can make it?"

"I know they can, Bob dear."

Their eyes met and held, and presently Joan's dimmed with tears at the sheer happiness which filled her heart.

Presently he said: "I have something for you."

Joan smiled eagerly. "A souvenir from the mine?"

"No. It wasn't that kind of a mine."

"Have you got it with you?"

He stirred his coffee with exaggerated nonchalance.

"I can't give it to you here . . ."

"Why not?"

"Oh, it's sort of a private present . . ."

Later, in a taxi going up town, he took a tiny black velvet box from his inside pocket. "Shut your eyes," he commanded. "As she did so, he opened the box and reached for her hand. Gently, he slipped a ring on her finger."

"Oh, Bob!" Joan's eyes widened as she looked down at the sparkling diamond on her left hand. For a moment she just gazed at it, holding her breath in speechless wonderment.

"Do you like it?"

"Like it? My dear, I never saw such a beautiful ring in all my life. It's so—so utterly magnificent. It frightens me . . . Take it off, dear, and let me read to inscription. It has an inscription, hasn't it?"

SUNSHINE INN NEEDING FUNDS

Greater Assistance Required to Continue Operations of Institution

The number of meals provided by Sunshine Inn during the thirty-one days of March was 4,857, an average of 157 free meals daily, as compared with 191 meals daily in February, according to the monthly report of Burges J. Gadsden, manager.

The decrease commenced with the advent of mild weather at the beginning of the month, and applied chiefly to younger able-bodied men.

The cash statement presented to the committee of Trustees showed a further deficit in finances, amounting to $72.64 for the month. This last is the third monthly deficit this year, and brings the total loss in 1937 to the sum of $339.92. The cash expenditure from January 1 has been $787.09, to provide 16,220 meals to needy men, women and children.

Cash contribution during the month amounted to $202.55 by individual donations, and $6.97 by way of the gift box at Sunshine Inn. The committee desires to express appreciation for support received, and to add that losses are adding up and endangering the life of Sunshine Inn.

The total number of meals provided from commencement is 384,819, at a total cash expenditure of $11,937.57 for five years and three months of operation.

Voluntary donations have been relied upon and there has never been any cost for management. It is sincerely hoped that the friends of this institution will give it sufficient support to provide against further losses.

TORONTO'S CORONATION COSTS

Toronto, May 14.—In actual materials only, Toronto spent an estimated $100,000 on Coronation decorations, a survey yesterday indicated.

Mr. Hepburn said the work of the board would be to give labor and industry "a better understanding of the problems confronting them." The board would handle the minimum wage question as well, he said.

E. J. Young Heads Ontario Board

Toronto, May 14.—Edward James Young, former Liberal M.P. for Weyburn, Sask., and a member of the National Employment Commission, has been appointed chairman of the Ontario government's industry and labor board. Premier Hepburn announced the choice late yesterday.

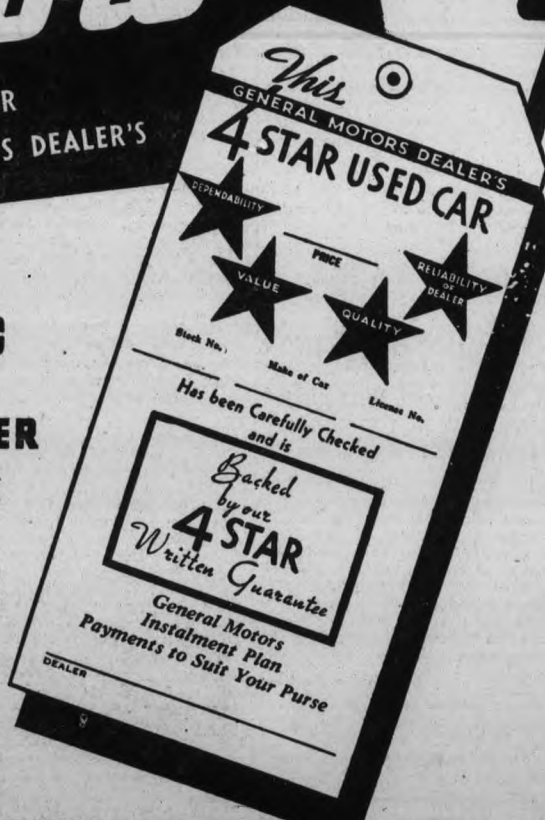

Mr. Hepburn said the work of the board would be to give labor and industry "a better understanding of the problems confronting them." The board would handle the minimum wage question as well, he said.

SOONER or later you reach a time when you feel your store of energy and vitality is definitely lessening.

No matter at what age that feeling comes, that is the time to recondition yourself. Start taking two 'PHYLOSAN' tablets three times each day before meals.

From the day you do, you'll feel you're growing younger. You lose those alarming symptoms of decline. You gain new stores of physical and mental energy.

The reason for this is, that 'PHYLOSAN' brings you a substance which is the basic source of vital energy. Its extraction in natural form is a medico-scientific triumph resulting from the researches of Dr. E. Buerger, Professor of Medicine at the University of Berne, under whose direction and according to whose formula 'PHYLOSAN' is made. 'PHYLOSAN' has knocked years off the ages of many men and women. Let this natural, drugless discovery of medical science make you younger.

WHAT RATE LOAN INTEREST?

To the Editor:—"Banker's" answer to "Householder" is ingenious, rather than ingenious. It is perfectly true that at a rate of a little under 3.2 per cent compounded annually, a loan of $1,666.66 will in three years amount to $1,826.64, as "Banker" carefully states twice over to be sure that the idea sinks in. But this misrepresents the position of the borrower. He does not have the use of the loan for three years. He has possession of the first instalment of $50.74 for only one month, the second for two, and so on to the last one, which he has held for thirty-six months. The average time for all the instalments is eighteen and a half months. If it was exactly eighteen months, the borrower is paying in effect twice the rate mentioned, or somewhat less than 6.4 per cent. I have no doubt that the payments have been calculated for exactly 6 per cent.

LIKE ABERHART PROMISES

To the Editor:—I notice the Social Credit League of British Columbia is making the same promises to electors of this province that Mr. Aberhart made to the people of Alberta two years ago. These promises consist of a halt to growth of provincial interest-bearing debt; distribution of dividends, discounts, etc.; a balanced budget; no repudiation of bonded debt either as to interest or principal; an export trade bureau; no increase in taxation; no more political roads.

The Alberta government has now been in office for twenty months and, as yet, not one of these promises has been carried out. At present a committee of five men, selected from Alberta M.P.P.s, has been appointed, at $8 per day plus traveling expenses, to search the world for "experts" to put into effect their Social Credit plan which at the time of the Alberta election was supposed to be cut and dried, ready for instant use. The head of this committee is at the present moment enjoying a nice trip to England, at the public expense, for the purpose of trying to persuade Major Douglas to come to the aid of his bewildered followers in Alberta, who are waiting for a miracle. He is a little shy about putting his theories to a practical test.

Is there any reason to suppose that the candidates nominated by the B.C. Social Crediters are any more capable of putting their theories into practice than their Alberta brothers? Are they men and women of practical experience or merely just vendors of the latest patent medicine, guaranteed to cure all our ills? Judging by a pamphlet entitled "Are You Interested in Abolishing Poverty and Giving Democracy Real Freedom and Power?" issued by Douglas Social Credit (B.C. section), they belong to the latter category.

TROTSKY OR LENIN

To the Editor:—In a letter of April 26, "Canadian Liberal" recommends your readers to study Leon Trotsky's book "The Revolution Betrayed." The writer infers that Trotskyism is a form of Communism, a statement which is entirely erroneous—recent events have proved and are still proving this.

Trotsky was a military leader and strategist and as such upheld and advocated world revolution in its most aggressive form, viz., that now adopted by Fascism, which by sheer force of arms endeavors to impose its will upon the reluctant peoples. Lenin, on the other hand, repudiated such action and insisted that, after the revolution, Russia must put its own house in order, and by force of example and education, induce others to change their social order to a similar system, in their own way and time. This was the point of divergence between Lenin and Trotsky and the cause of the latter's expulsion from Russia.

In his work "State and Revolution," Lenin refers to the protracted period of transition which must necessarily exist between the foundation of true Socialism and the ultimate goal of Communism, if chaos and disaster are to be avoided. He states: "The economic basis for the complete withering away of the state is the high stage of development of Communism when the antagonism between mental and physical labor disappears, that is to say, when one of the principal sources of modern social inequality disappears—a source, moreover, which it is impossible to remove immediately by the mere conversion of the means of production into public property, by the mere expropriation of the capitalists."

... But how rapidly this development will go forward—this we do not, and cannot know."

When the present Russian constitution came into effect, Stalin stated

Your Baby and Mine

WEANING BEFORE HOT WEATHER MOST ADVISABLE

The question of whether to wean the baby before hot weather pops up seasonally. Since we are creeping on toward the warmer season it is well to examine it now in order to forestall any pernicious and harmful advice. In general it may be said that if the baby's ninth month arrives in September, or later, it may be very wise to endeavor to nurse the baby through the summer. But if the baby would be nine months of age in July or August then by all means wean the baby before the hot weather begins.

The baby can suffer as much from faulty nutrition when nursed as from artificial feeding. The great difficulty is that once the hot weather is upon us the mother is confused as to whether the child's cries and whines are due to faulty feeding or to the weather. There are always far too many amateur prophets who can find an excuse for any kind of behavior on the score of "his teeth," or the "heat," or almost everything but the real enemy which is the child's faulty feeding.

The mother of a seven months' old baby about to embark on a long ocean voyage and remain in a foreign country for the summer is bewildered by the conflicting advice she is getting. She is uncertain whether it would be wiser to continue nursing the baby, or to wean before the beginning of the voyage.

My advice is to wean the baby now. Then the baby will not be upset if the mother should be sea-sick. The baby will not be treated for ailments attributed to the voyage when lack of sufficient nourishment would more easily account for sleeplessness or daytime fretfulness.

Canned milks of stable quality, canned sieved vegetables and fruits and boxed, pre-cooked cereals along with the fresh fruits available on board will make a diet that will be substantially the same from start to finish of the journey. Water should be boiled.

Our leaflet on "Traveling With Baby" offers other information to the parent about to embark on a trip on land or sea. A self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope is asked with all leaflets from this department.

Legislator Admits Hotel Shooting

Austin, Tex., May 14.—Representative B. E. Quinn of Beaumont, grey-haired veteran of the Texas Legislature, was charged with the hotel slaying of Herman Hic's, Houston civil engineer, shortly after dawn today, in a complaint filed with a justice of the peace.

Quinn was immediately released under $1,000 bond. Quinn told the Associated Press he had fired in self defense when two men threatened to kill him after he had complained to the room clerk that noise "going on all night" in another room would not allow him to sleep.

It is possible to see an eclipsed moon, with the sun visible, also. This seemingly impossible phenomenon results when the refraction of the earth's atmosphere brings into view a moon that actually has not risen and a sun that already has set.

Carl Hubbell Sets World Pitching Record

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

AFTER deliberately throwing away what should have been a sure goal, Victoria United suffered its first defeat of the season on Wednesday afternoon in an intercity soccer match against North Shore. After having sent all other invading clubs home with a defeat tacked onto their records, the United fell before the young players sporting the bright red jackets of the mainland squad. On the afternoon's play we would judge the local eleven just as good as the visiting players were quicker on the ball and took better advantage of their scoring opportunities.

The incident of the penalty kick which was thrown away, as far as scoring a goal was concerned, is hard to understand. George Payne, who took the kick, stated after the game that he was acting under orders, and that was the reason for his driving the ball wide of the net. Sportsmanship is to be admired at all times, but the rules of the game must be lived up to. In this case the referee would have been quite within his rights if he had ordered the kick taken over again, and in addition sent the offending player off the field for ungentlemanly conduct. Players must abide by the decision of the referee at all times. His decision is final. In this case the action of kicking the ball wide made the official look foolish.

Within the memory of the writer a visiting team has never deliberately missed a penalty shot. On several occasions invading players have shot the ball directly at the goal, but at that, there is always the chance the ball will get away from him and go for a goal. There was considerable discussion among the fans after Wednesday's incident, and the general trend of opinion was that the Victoria team should have taken advantage of the golden opportunity to score.

During the afternoon I chatted to Alex Robertson, that close-mouthed Scot who has been made a one-man commission for Victoria football, and is in complete charge of all arrangements for the forthcoming visit of Charlton Athletic, English first division club. For once Alex talked without first saying: "This is not for publication." He told me the manager of the Victoria team has been selected, but would not announce his name. Many rumors have been going around the soccer circle as to who will receive the appointment.

Robertson also said the selection of the players to go into training for the combined Victoria-Manamoa eleven to oppose Charlton, would not be selected until after the Nanaimo-Victoria United match at the Coal City on Sunday. Apparently, fifteen or twenty players will be chosen to start training, and the actual eleven to start the field will be selected at the later date. Robertson will make the trip to Nanaimo and watch the members of the two clubs in action. We would not be surprised if the already-chosen manager does not go along also, so anybody greatly interested can just keep their eyes open and learn his identity.

Although the baseballers scarcely are warmed up, Cleveland critics have launched a campaign for the scalp of another Indian manager. It is good old Steve O'Neill this trip.

A Cleveland plot-to-position is as precarious as that of a Cuban president. He either wins or gets out.

You no doubt will recall Babe Ruth knocking the ball out of the park, Southpaw Fritz Coumbe into the minors, and Lee Fohl out of a job.

Alva Bradley ankled into the visitors' clubhouse at Yankee Stadium to inform his noble athletes that the public hired him, and that if they wanted Roger Peckinpaugh retained they had to snap out of it pronto and without marking time. They failed to get going, but Peckinpaugh did.

There is no delay when the boob birds climb aboard a Cleveland strateg.

That grand character, Walter Johnson, was shipped back to his Maryland farm in August, 1935.

O'Neill was supposed to be able to give the Cleveland pitchers something they lacked under Johnson, the game's finest finger, but this mystic quality failed to develop, and the Tribe tumbled into the second division for the first time in eight years.

And now, with the club riddled by sickness and injuries, the boys are aboard O'Neill, although the Irishman barely has had time to get his hands up as they say in the back-busting business. The outfit had participated in exactly nine engagements when the coyotes commenced to howl.

New York Star Wins Twenty-one Straight Games

Screwball Ace Turns Back League-leading Pittsburgh 5 to 2

Yanks Finally Out of Slump

The only man in baseball who wasn't all steamed up today over Carl Hubbell's all-time winning streak was (you guessed it) Carl Owen Hubbell, himself.

Naturally, "square pants" took pride in his string of twenty-one-in-a-row over a two-season stretch, an achievement never before accomplished in all baseball history. But he realizes that one of these days, the law of averages is going to catch up with his good left arm—and then the Hubbell bubble will be "busted."

"You know," he repeated what he has said time and again, "a streak like that is largely a matter of luck. One of these days a pitcher is going to be hot against us and is going to shut us out."

Until then, however, he's still the New York Giants' "meat ticket," who comes through with that win when it's needed; still the screwball specialist whose 5 to 2 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday topped off a performance that outclasses the streaks of the Mathewson, the Johnson and the Marquard.

NO RECOGNITION

The queer part about the whole business is that the National League doesn't recognize the streak as a record. The only distance flinging feats given official sanction are nineteen straight by Tim Lincecum in 1888 and Rube Marquard in 1912. The Rube also had won his last start in 1911, for a run of twenty straight.

Yesterday was "Hubb's" fifth straight year and hooked on his unfinished run of sixteen last season. But the best he is going to get for the job is a special notation in the books that he won twenty-one in a row in league competition over a two-year stretch.

Since last July 17 he has whipped every outfit in the league at least once, and every team except Boston at least three times.

Joining him in breaking into the record books yesterday was Joe Kuhel, Washington's first baseman, who belted three triples to tie a modern major league mark and lead the way to a 10 to 2 win over the Chicago White Sox.

A revamped batting order paid dividends for the New York Yankees as they nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 2. Joe DiMaggio, batting in the clean-up spot in Lou Gehrig's slot, clubbed out a triple and two singles.

Brooklyn upsetting Dodgers turned in their fourth straight win, topping the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 4, while the Chicago Cubs went twelve innings before downing Boston's Bees, 8 to 6, and the St. Louis Cardinals continued their Baker Bowl belting with a 5 to 4 conquest of the Phillies.

Making his major league starting debut, George Gifford pitched a five-hit shutout as the Detroit Tigers topped the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 0.

COAST LEAGUE

Freddie Muller, Seattle's hard-hitting second baseman, was tied to day with his teammate Art (Mike) Hunt for home run hitting honors in the Pacific Coast Baseball League, because he had clubbed four homers in two games. Each player has ten four-baggers to his credit.

Two homers by Freddie yesterday were enough for Seattle to defeat Los Angeles, 10 to 9. His ninth-inning homer was the deciding run. He collected three hits in three times at bat, including a two-bagger as well as the homers.

After losing two straight, San Diego, with the aid of six-hit pitching by "Tiny" Jim Chaplin, shut out the league-leading Sacramento Solons, 5 to 0.

Ernie Hawkins of the San Francisco Seals belted a homer with the sacks loaded, and Dominic DiMaggio had another good day at bat as the (Turn to page 17 column 1)

TWO CRICKET MATCHES ON

Five C's Play Victoria at Beacon Hill Tomorrow in First League Tilt

The first league cricket match of the season will take place tomorrow afternoon when Five C's and the Victoria Club will take over the pitch at Beacon Hill Park for the afternoon. The game will commence at 2.15 o'clock.

At Macdonald Park the Albions will have an innings with the Victoria City No. 2 eleven in a friendly fixture. The teams are as follows:

Five C's—Adie, Conley, J. Payne, Griffin, Leighton, Morton, Petch, Yoxall (captain), Attwell, Edwards and A. N. Other.

Albions—N. P. Pite (captain), Smith, Freeman, Gibbons, Barkley, Walter, D. Pite, Swan, Pitkethly, Hogarth and Pritchard.

Bert Irish, British Columbia professional champion, and A. McKelrick, city amateur champion, will meet this evening in the Naval Veterans in an exhibition billiard match, starting at 7.30 o'clock. Irish will concede 250 points in a 750-point game.

Billiard and snooker cups for the city championships will be presented by Arthur Patton, president of the city association, and H. R. Dawe, president of the Naval Veterans' Club.

LEWIS-PERRONI FIGHT TONIGHT

Industrious John Henry Due to Fight Bob Olin Next Month

New York, May 14.—John Henry Lewis, master of the light heavyweight situation, enters the current complexities of the heavyweight class tonight against Patey Perroni, a fire-tried battler who hangs his fame on the dubious peg of having gone ten rounds with Joe Louis.

John Henry, a 3 to 1 favorite, to trim Perroni, has aimed at the top weight ever since he established himself as the light-heavy champion. He fights Bob Olin next month and if he wins plans to vacate the title and campaign as a heavy.

Few champions are as industrious as the twenty-three-year-old Californian. He fought twenty times last year and has put eleven more bouts in the books thus far in 1937.

Loughlin Retires

Chicago, May 14.—Clem Loughlin, manager of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League for the last three years, announced his retirement from the game today after twenty years as a player and manager. In a letter to Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the team, Loughlin stated he was quitting the sport because his wheat farm and a hotel in Viking, Alta., required his attention.

The 1936-37 season was disastrous for the Black Hawks, who finished last in the American division of the league, with fourteen victories, twenty-seven defeats and seven ties.

Conway, War Admiral's trainer; Alfred Landon, former governor of Kansas; Kurtzinger; Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Chandler.

CUP FINAL ON SOCCER CARD

City and Wests Battle Tomorrow For Possession of Freddie Price Cup

The Freddie Price Memorial Cup trophy donated to perpetuate the popularity ran high in soccer circles, will be at stake tomorrow afternoon at the Athletic Park, when Victoria City and Victoria West clash in the final.

All through the current season these two aggregations have raced neck and neck for laurels, providing many interesting battles. It was only after many hard-fought tussles that the Wests managed to capture the Victoria and District Football League championship, with the City in the runner-up position.

Another hard battle is forecast for tomorrow when these two clubs again clash—this time for possession of one of the finest bits of silverware ever put up for local competition.

"Scotty" McKay will referee. Play will start at 3 o'clock.

The teams are as follows: Victoria West—Bestell, Sweeney, Lorandini, R. Barnes, Thompson, Embrey, Robinson, Sage, Watt, Morgan, Dallimore, Rickinson and G. Barnes.

Victoria City—Rowe, Roper, Moody, C. Robbins, G. Robbins, Moore, Youson, Peers, Halkett, Thom, G. Payne and Smith.

SNEAD-HINES GOLF LEADERS

Score Sub-par 68's in First Round of Metropolitan Open Tourney

Bloomfield, N.J., May 14.—Sam Snead and Jimmy Hines shared the lead yesterday at the end of the first round of the seventy-two-hole $2,000 Metropolitan open golf championship at the Forest Hills Club with sub-par 68's.

As low men for the day, they split the $50 award offered for the best round.

The standings after the first eighteen holes bore out the wisdom of this year's selections for the United States Ryder Cup team that will meet the British in England late next month.

Snead and Hines are contenders for the four vacancies on the international squad. Henry Picard, who finished in the next group with a par 70, already has been named for the team, and Paul Runyan, and Vic Ghormley, candidates for the open positions, scored 70 and 71, respectively.

Women's Tourney At Gorge Links

The qualifying round of the women's club championship will be played at the Gorge, Yale Golf Club on Sunday. Players will arrange their own starting times.

The draw follows: Mrs. S. Enke and Mrs. A. Creffield; Mrs. L. Silburn and Mrs. D. W. Morry; Mrs. H. H. Allen and Mrs. D. R. Hurdle; Miss L. Newnam and Mrs. H. P. Hodges; Miss M. Hill and Mrs. W. H. Licklider; Miss L. Balnave and Miss I. Whitaker; Miss L. Blackburn and Mrs. A. Swan; Miss P. Hill and Miss V. R. S. Gleason; Mrs. J. A. MacKinnon and Miss C. L. Harris.

Tim Keist Wins Rousing Battle

Victoria Welterweight Gives Great Performance in Taking Ten-round Nod From Al Ford, Vancouver, Negro; Danny Murray Victor in Semi-windup

Jarring his opponent from the top of his curly head to the tip of his toes with stiff counter punches and giving him a thorough going over in the clinches Tim Keist, Victoria welterweight, won a ten-round decision over Al Ford, Vancouver negro, in one of the fastest fights seen here in months at the Empire Theatre last night. It was a return bout, Keist having won from the colored boy on a foul a few weeks ago.

The card presented by Bert Bailey drew a fair crowd, who left the house perfectly satisfied after the main event had saved the card, the preliminaries being pretty dull.

Keist put on the finest exhibition of his career in whipping the negro. He used his head and in every round made Ford miss badly and then whipped home counter punches.

Keist kept boring in all night, and when he did Ford had to cover up to save himself from short right and left jabs to the mid-section. Ford's best weapon proved a right hook, which he landed several times on Keist's jaw, but it failed to slow down the Victoria ringster.

ABSORBS PUNISHMENT
Ford took plenty and more than proved he has no glass jaw. Time after time Keist caught him coming in with solid right smashes to the button, but never once did the negro waver or look like he was going down. There was not a knockdown in the ten rounds.

Keist looked at his best in the eighth round. He caught Ford flush on the point of the chin with a right cross and then backed the negro into the ropes and pounded leather into his stomach. Ford finally fought clear only to have Keist get him cornered on the opposite side of the ring and go to work on him again. It looked like the Victoria boy might score a knockout, but the bell ended the flurry.

At the finish both boys were tired, although Keist was in much the better condition of the two. Keist weighed 141 pounds and Ford 139.

PRELIMINARIES
In the six-round semi-windup Danny Murray, Vancouver, 160 pounds, took a referee's decision from Ed Jones, Edmonton, 165, Murray had all the best of this mix, and was the aggressor throughout every round. There was little to get the crowd excited about. In the fourth round the Vancouver boy landed a low blow, but Jones continued after a short rest. There were no knockdowns.

Eddie Wise, Vancouver, was awarded the nod over Bob Wilson, Port Alberni, in a four-rounder. Wise proved the smarter scrapper of the two, although Wilson when he got in and fought was able to hold his own. The up-islander, after suffering a bloody nose in the first round was too timid and lost points through backing up.

Flooring Willie Jones, Vancouver, for eight and six counts in the first and second rounds, respectively, Bob Keist won the decision over the negro in the opening preliminary over four rounds. There was little action in the bout with Jones electing to dance around the ring most of the time, while Keist did not show any willingness to get too close.

Roy Baker refereed the preliminaries and Bill Inglis handled the main event.

WALLACE ALL SET FOR BOUT

Canadian Welterweight Champion States His Hand Entirely Healed

Toronto, May 14.—Gordon Wallace, Vancouver, declared last night his left hand, broken against Sammy Lufspring, is entirely healed and he is ready to defend his Canadian welterweight boxing championship here Monday night against Frankie Genovese.

"My left hand—and that's my best one—is quite okay again. In fact, I accidentally tested it out when boxing Ray Cook. I hit him a solid punch on the forearm, and my hand was not affected in the least."

"My weight is better than when I fought Lufspring, and I guess I'm getting more accustomed to the climate here. I was only around 144½ when going in against Lufspring, but I'm 148 right now, and feel great. I'll weigh 146 or 146½ Monday, and will make that weight easily and still be feeling great."

"I think it will be a real fight," continued Wallace. "Frankie is plenty tough for me two years ago out on the Coast, and we have both gained experience since then."

GRADS SMOTHER WICHITA AGAIN

Run Through United States Girls For 48 to 12 Victory in Second Cage Fixture For Underwood Trophy; Play Again Tomorrow

Edmonton, Alta., May 14.—Unable to solve Edmonton Grads' tight defence, Wichita Thurstons were trounced 48 to 12 by the Canadian girls here last night in the second game of the best-of-five series for the Underwood Challenge Trophy.

Grads, who won the first game 53 to 18, displayed a decided edge in all departments and became heavy favorites to win the third game tomorrow and take the series with three straight victories.

Without the services of guard Lucy Flynn, the United States challengers were weakened further when Captain Corine Smith, All-American guard, was forced to retire in the second quarter after she and Captain Noel MacDonald of the Grads bumped heads. The Wichita player, who suffered a two-inch gash on the forehead, was out for the rest of the game, but Miss MacDonald continued NO SUBSTITUTES

After guard Colleen Pederson was banished in the third with four personals, Thurstons had no substitutes to relieve and Grads coasted to an easy victory—their twenty-seventh straight, being unbeaten since downed 44 to 40 by El Dorado Lions in an Underwood game, May 28, 1936.

Forced to shoot from far out as Grads laid down a close-knit defence, Thurstons had scored only one basket when about a minute remained to play. Then centre Hazel "Connie" McCaughy, tossed two field goals to lift Wichita's score to double figures.

Lineups:
Wichita—S. Ogden 1, A. Shook 1, E. Brownwell 1, C. Smith 4, C. Peterson 1, H. McCaughy 4, D. Friesen, Total 12.

Victoria's Famous Hockey Family Arrive in City to Spend Summer; Lynn Forecasts Great Season For New York Rangers; Murray Will Likely Move Up Into N.H.L.

"With a young club that is certain to improve I don't see how they are going to keep us from reaching the top next season," said Lynn Patrick, member of the New York Rangers' National Hockey League Club, who arrived back home in Victoria today. His father Lester, manager and vice-president of the Rangers, accompanied by his brother Murray, reached the city yesterday afternoon. Lester and Murray drove by automobile from Omaha.

Lynn, accompanied by Dick Surphiss, another Victoria boy, who acted as trainer for the New York Rangers, amateur farm team of the Rangers all winter, made the trip from New York by car. "I set a record for myself and one that a lot of other fellows can shoot at," Lynn said. "Leaving New York last Sunday night at 8 o'clock and never driving later than 11 o'clock at night we reached Vancouver yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock."

Tipping the scales at 155 pounds, sixteen less than when he left here last fall, Lynn looks in the pink of condition. During his visit for the summer Patrick hopes to keep his weight down and report for training in the fall with not too much poundage to take off.

"As far as the past season was concerned it was a bad one for me owing to injuries," Lynn declared. "First of all I got my knee twisted and had to play with a steel brace for several weeks. Then my chest started to give me trouble and I was found that I had a chipped breastbone and for the remainder of the schedule and in the play-offs I had to wear a special protector. As a result I was under a handicap, the chest brace hindering my shooting."

In the opinion of Lynn, the Rangers, who finished runners-up to the Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup series, outplayed the Motor City club in the fifth and deciding game. "We played harder to eliminate the Toronto Maple Leafs but in that series our club got the breaks but against Detroit the breaks went against us," Lynn remarked. Lynn stated he figured Toronto and Boston were the two toughest clubs in the play-offs.

PRAISES ROBERTSON
Patrick had great praise for the exhibition of goal tenders turned in by Earl Robertson, former goalie for the Victoria Cubs, in the nets for Detroit. Robertson was pressed into duty when Normie Smith, first stringer, was forced out through injuries.

Lynn figures Robertson played even better hockey than Smith would have done. "In that last game Earl certainly rose to the heights and I am certain glad he has won himself a major league berth," Robertson was sold the other day to the New York Americans.

Lynn saw Torchy Peden and Doug Peden, Victoria's two famous six-day bike riders, in action in the race at New York last week. "In my opinion Doug looks a great prospect and in that New York race he and Torchy had tough luck. They had the race won on the final night with nearly a lap gained when Doug blew a tire and the accident ruined their chances."

Lynn stated Murray had experienced a fine season as a defenceman with the Philadelphia Ramblers, International-American League Club, and a farm team for the Rangers. He also said he expected "Muzz" to move up into the N.H.L. next season. According to Lynn his younger brother has not cast aside his ring aspirations although he has not done any fighting the last few months.

When talked to on the telephone Lester stated he was feeling fine and was glad to be back in Victoria. He expects to remain here for eight or ten weeks. Lester will operate his hockey school again this fall but has not decided whether or not it will be at Winnipeg or Saskatoon.

BOXING
Lakeland, Fla.—Chino Alvarez, 131, Tampa, stopped Sammy Cappello, 130, New Orleans (two).

WRESTLING
New York—Dick Shikat, 227, Cleveland, pinned Frank Sexton, 232, California, 43.51.

Washington—Rudy Buxter, 220, Omaha, Neb., threw Laverne Daxer, 218, Iowa, 25.30.

San Francisco—Like Caswell, 179, Oklahoma, defeated Jimmy El Pulp, 178, Oklahoma City (two out of three falls).

Look After Feller

Cleveland, May 14.—It probably won't be necessary, but if advisable baseball's most publicized rookie, Bob Feller, will be retired for the entire season with an injury to his "million dollar" pitching arm, the Cleveland Indians' vice-president and general manager declared today.

"We're not taking any chances on that arm and we're not going to allow him to pitch again until the last trace of soreness has disappeared," said C. C. Shapnick, who is handling the eighteen-year-old strikeout king's business affairs.

Bob suffered the injury in his first American League start this year and retired after six innings during which he fanned eleven.

He has not pitched since—that was twenty days ago.

Baseball Sick List Boosts Player Deals

Major League Clubs Scramble For Material to Plug Holes in Rosters Caused Through Illness and Injury

New York, May 14.—With hospitals and sick rooms jammed with players who could form a couple of good all-star clubs, and with some of the flag contenders nearing a panic, a big trade wind is blowing up over the major league baseball front. Several big deals are expected to be swung before the June 15 deadline for swapping and selling.

Reports still persist New York Giants are hot after Dolph Camilli, the Philadelphia first sacker who's in the Philly doghouse for holding out. St. Louis Cardinals, hot after a catcher and another infielder, may swing a deal with Cincinnati Reds, who opened the market Wednesday by buying first baseman Baxter Jordan from Boston Bees.

Brooklyn may swap pitcher Tom Baker, infielder Jim Bucher and outfielder Ed Wilson, now with Jersey City, to Philadelphia for pitcher Claude Passeau and catcher Bill Atwood. Even Joe McCarthy of the failing world championship New York Yankees, say reports, is ready to listen to deals as is Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers.

LUCKY ROOKIE

Tom Henrich is the luckiest baseball rookie of the year. Not only did the Yankees give him $20,000 for signing a contract and then, after a brief sojourn on the Newark farm, give him a regular's job on their ball club, but they wound up by assigning Earle (Old Scoop) Combs as his roommate and adviser. If he's got the makings, "Old Scoop" will make a star out of Henrich.

The other luckiest men are managers—Pie Traynor of Pittsburgh and Burt Grimes of Brooklyn. Pie insisted the Pirates pay $20,000 for John (Big Shot) Dickshot. Grimes insisted that Brooklyn sign Gil Brack, who played for Burt Grimes at Louisville. Both Dickshot and Brack are going great.

HORSESHOE PITCHING

George Ledingham won the handsome Coronation challenge trophy in A section play in the horseshoe pitching contests held on Coronation Day by the Greater Victoria Horseshoe Pitching Association at the corner of Blanshard and Pandora.

In B section, B.H.A. Dundas defeated Pinkerton in the finals to carry off the challenge cup. Preparations will be made at a meeting to be held next Monday night in the Foresters' Hall for the staging of a tournament on May 24 for the city singles championship.

Regal Spectacle Millions Waited to See

While spectators' cheers still echoed through London, this remarkable bird's-eye view of King George's Coronation procession was flashed across the Atlantic. Through the eyes of the camera set up in Buckingham Palace grounds, readers of The Times got a more complete view of the spectacle than thousands who paid fabulous prices for grandstand seats along the route, like those at right and left in the background. The golden royal coach, drawn by four teams of chargers and bearing the King, has just turned out of the palace gate. Precisely aligned troops stand rigidly at present arms in the foreground, while a cordon holds in check the throng that encircles Victoria Fountain. In the distance, marching down the Mall are the vanguard of the troops.

BRUINS AND LAUNDRY WIN

Defeat Kents and Longshoremen in Opening Senior A Softball Games

Painter's Bruins, last year's senior B champions of British Columbia, and New Method Laundry, scored victories yesterday evening when senior A nines in the Lower Island Softball Association ushered in the 1937 season with a pair of fixtures.

The Bruins defeated Kents, formerly the Silent Glows, 15 to 12, in a high scoring game at the Athletic Park, while the laundry nine scored a 9 to 5 win over Victoria Longshoremen at Victoria West Park.

Smashing the horseshoe for a home run in the first frame with the bases full and a pair of base hits later in the fixtures, which recorded runs, George "Porky" Andrews, was largely responsible for Painter's Bruins triumph over Kents.

Dale and Brown also crashed home runs.

"Chuck" Turner's stay on the mound for Kents was short-lived. After throwing the sphere for four rounds he was replaced by the southpaw, Lloyd Jones. Bruins smashed out nine safeties and secured eleven runs during Turner's stay on the hill. Jones allowed five hits, from which the Bruins collected a quartette of runs.

For six innings Glendenning did the hurling for Painter's Bruins. In the seventh Harold Turner came on to relieve Glendenning, who was nicked for a dozen hits, from which Kents scored a likewise number of runs.

Batteries—Turner, Jones and Caddell; Glendenning, Turner and Berry.

The New Method Laundry-Victoria Longshoremen game saw the score tied 3 to 3 in the fourth inning and 5 to 5 in the seventh inning, but during the remainder of the clash the laundry nine held the hitting spotlight, scoring four runs without a return from the opposing club.

The only homer of this game was hoisted by Tom O'Connell in the eighth session.

Batteries—E. Molr and L. Knapp; A. McBride and M. McBride. ONE GAME TONIGHT

The only game listed for tonight is the postponed fixture between Colwood Wood Company and Sons of Canada, Senior B team, which will be played at Savory Park.

WAR ADMIRAL HEAVY CHOICE

Derby Winner Expected to Repeat in $50,000 Preakness Tomorrow

Baltimore, May 14.—The $50,000 Preakness, which will have its forty-seventh running tomorrow, held a War Admiral tinge today.

Trainers of seven other three-year-olds marched boldly into the secretary's office today and answered the challenge of the Kentucky Derby winner by dropping the names of their charges in the entry box.

Early arrivals, however, joined the experts in predicting a close battle for second money, with the diminutive son of Man O'War from Samuel Riddle's Philadelphia-owned stable joining the select circle of five thoroughbreds which have won both the Derby and Preakness.

Thundershowers late yesterday afternoon and last night threatened to make the racing strip muddy but the weather man promised War Admiral a fast track over the mile and three-sixteenths test.

Two other sons of Man O'War, himself winner of the Preakness seven-and-a-half years ago, also will parade to the post at about 5:30 p.m. (E.S.T.), 2:30 p.m. (P.S.T.). Only Walter M. Jeffords Matey figures to offer War Admiral any kind of opposition, however.

Seattle Golfers Here For Match

Seventy members of the Seattle Golf Club reached the city by the afternoon boat from Seattle today to play the first half of the annual inter-club match with the Victoria Golf Club. They are billeted at the Empress.

The second half of the match will be played in Seattle in the fall.

The Seattle players, who are captained by C. W. Adams, appeared to be in fine fettle and keen to get into the fray.

The teams will get into action tomorrow morning at the Oak Bay course.

MARKET NOTES

There will be a shortage of ripe bananas in Victoria for the week-end.

A large shipment of strawberries arrived from California this morning.

The price of green peas has advanced this week. No. 2 and dessert tomatoes from local hot houses are selling well. Small quantities of California and Washington asparagus are still on the market.

JUNGLE COW FARMER HERE

Capt. R. J. K. Fenton Says Dairy Industry Developing in Kenya Colony

Dairying on a large scale is not usually associated with the jungle country of British East Africa, but Capt. R. J. K. Fenton, who is at the Empress Hotel today, claims it is one of the most promising industries in Kenya Colony.

The Kenya dairy industry is controlled by a co-operative association with its headquarters at Nairobi, and finds an outlet for its butter and other products in the British market, said Capt. Fenton, who for ten years operated a cow farm within sound of the lion's roar in Kenya.

"Four years ago our co-operative organization was shipping 400 tons of butter to England, and last year we exported 1,300 tons," he said, in explaining the growth of the industry within the last few years.

Capt. Fenton's sun, is on his way back to his home in England, after roaming half-way across the world. While in Kenya he was A.D.C. to Brigadier-General Sir Joseph Aloysius Byrne, G.C.M.G., K.C.M.G., governor and commander-in-chief of Kenya Colony for the last six years, who has just retired and returned to England via the Panama Canal route.

Capt. Piers Jones of St. Asaph, North Wales, who is visiting Victoria with his wife after fishing for trout in New Zealand, is a cousin of Capt. Fenton. They met in New Zealand in February and are at present travelling together.

Canada holds special interest for Capt. Fenton, for his father formerly owned fruit ranch property near Vernon in the Okanagan Valley.

Advance Plans For Fete Days

Committee Busy Arranging Events For May 24 Period in City

Coronation festivities being completed, the city celebration committee went ahead today, with plans for the observance of Victoria Day.

Several events have been arranged for the festive period which, under present arrangements, may start on the evening of Saturday, May 22, and continue for three days.

The major difficulty facing the committee today appeared to be that of fitting in the various functions to avoid conflict in time.

A big Indian pageant is expected to be a highlight of the festivities, and a street dance, fireworks displays, two soccer games, including a match between Victoria and Vancouver St. Saviours, possibly a gymkhana, selection of a May queen and attendants and other sporting features also promise to add to the entertainment of the occasion.

BAD BREATH

The old theory that bad breath arises in the mouth is misleading. Bad breath invariably arises from the stomach. Lypol Anti-septic cleanses the mouth, and when swallowed, neutralizes fermentative processes in the stomach, the real source of bad breath. Satisfaction or money refunded by all Vancouver Drug Co. Hall on Monday evening at 7.45 o'clock. The Chief Factor requests that all members of the post avail themselves of this opportunity and be present.

D. M. McGregor's Injuries Fatal

Former Oaklands School Teacher Dies in Hospital After Accident

Donald M. McGregor, war veteran and former school teacher, who suffered a fractured skull last Sunday when struck by an automobile on Yates Street, died shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday evening in the Jubilee Hospital.

An inquest will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at Hayward's Funeral Parlors.

Mr. McGregor was injured while crossing the street. He was reported to have walked into a car driven on Yates Street by Victor Dear, Cordova Bay.

He was a native son of Victoria and was forty-six years of age. He attended local schools and after completing his course at Victoria High School went to McGill University. He went overseas with 67th Battalion and served with the 4th Battalion in France, with which unit he received a commission.

Following the war he was attached to the teaching staff of Oaklands School, later teaching at Wyndel before returning to Victoria, to retire through ill health.

He is survived by his widow, Lillian R. McGregor; his mother, Mrs. H. M. McGregor, and one sister, Mrs. W. Oliphant, all of Victoria. He was a nephew of the late Captain Herriek McGregor.

Complete Round-trip Commercial Flight

When Dick Merrill, famous flier, and his co-pilot, Jack Lambie, slipped in through the fog and made a landing at Floyd Bennett Field, New York, this afternoon, they made aviation history. They were the first fliers to make a round trip to the Atlantic for commercial purposes. They flew from New York to London with pictures of the Hindenburg disaster and Lambie are shown in the above picture beside the plane in which they made their flight.

REGAL MUSIC TO BE HEARD

Massed Choir and Orchestra of 250 to Give Public Performance

The general public is invited to the great Coronation Festival of British Music at the Christ Church Cathedral this evening. Admission is free.

Doors will open at 7.30 o'clock and the Victoria Choral Union's massed orchestra and choir of 250, the largest number of musicians ever to be assembled in Victoria, will begin the programme at 8.30 o'clock.

The Christ Church Cathedral seats 1,200. Those who cannot get in the cathedral will be able to hear the programme as amplifiers have been installed outside the building and the police will close a part of Quadra Street to traffic.

The city, the provincial government, and Lieutenant-Governor Eric Hamber are sharing the cost of this musical festival in honor of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Stanley Bulley will conduct the massed orchestra and choir. The programme consists entirely of Coronation music.

This public performance follows two previous performances, one on Coronation evening for the children and the other a state performance last night for invited guests.

Friendly Help Work Delicate

Volunteer Effort Has Important Place With Trained Workers

Because their work is in the more delicate direction of helping families and individuals out of their difficulties rather than sustaining them while they are in them, the private social agencies are less known to the public than those provided by the government. But because of that delicacy their work is also more difficult.

That the value of the functions of private social service organizations is being more widely appreciated in Victoria, however, is proved by the excellent response which the Friendly Help Welfare Association is receiving in its present campaign to raise $8,500 for its current work and for the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp for mothers and their children.

VOLUNTEER WORK
The work of the association is by no means carried on solely by paid trained workers. There is a great and little publicized volunteer contribution.

The fact that there are paid workers at all in the organization is sometimes criticized. To this the officials of the organization reply that experience of this sort is necessary in the conditions which prevail here.

However there is an important place for volunteer effort in social service work here, and it is only through the co-operation of men and women who give their time to office duties, to the care of clothes and supplies, to visiting and to the provision of car transportation for workers and for families who need to move from one place to another that the trained workers can devote all their time to the services for which they alone are qualified.

That there are many people in Victoria who give their spare time to help the Friendly Help Welfare Association day in and day out through the year is in itself sufficient advertisement of the value of the work of the organization.

REPORTS TONIGHT

The full extent of the public response to the present campaign of the Friendly Help will be known tonight, when the 100 volunteer workers in the drive gather in Spencer's dining-room to present their reports. It is expected their statements will show the campaign well forward to its $8,500 objective.

Magistrate Henry Hall will be the principal speaker at the report supper, giving encouragement to the organizers by telling them from his own experience of the value of welfare work generally and especially in its relation to children.

The Friendly Help Welfare Association asks the public of Victoria to consider for a moment what its work of straightening out family difficulties and helping parents and children over the rough spots of everyday life means to the community as a whole, and what dividends will accrue to the city in future years from contributions now to the support of that work.

CAMPAIGN TO SEND KILTIES

Chamber of Commerce to Raise Funds to Have Pipers in San Francisco

"We are solidly behind the proposal to send the pipe band of the First Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment to represent Victoria at the San Francisco Fiesta," said Thomas E. Watkins, president of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the campaign. "The balance of funds needed to guarantee the local Kilties' trip to San Francisco to take part in the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge at the end of the month."

Decision was reached by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held yesterday afternoon to inaugurate a campaign to raise $400 now required to have this city represented by the pipe band at the fiesta which will open at San Francisco on May 27 and last until June 2.

The plan of campaign was gone into at a further meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce today in conference with Major Stuart Robertson of the Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Harold Husband, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, announced that the senior chamber fully endorsed the plan, and G. H. Stevens, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, said his organization was fully behind the move, which would give valuable publicity to Victoria.

Approximately $600 of the $1,000 required to send the Canadian Scottish band to San Francisco has already been raised, the provincial government having contributed $250 of the amount.

Mr. Watkins said this morning that he expected no difficulty would be experienced in raising the balance of the money.

It is probable that the Canadian Scottish pipers will be the only Canadian representation at the Golden Gate festivities. Kilted bands from Canada, it is pointed out, visit the United States all too infrequently, and the colorful squad of twenty pipers from Victoria will be assured of an enthusiastic reception when they play "The Cock o' the North" through the business section of San Francisco.

It was suggested here today that the Victoria pipers would "steal the show."

Mayor Andrew McGavin will accompany a delegation of Victoria unemployed which will seek an interview with provincial authorities on Monday, it was announced at the City Hall today. The mayor made arrangements for the representatives to see E. W. Griffiths, provincial re- administrator, and will go with them to the Parliament Buildings for the meeting at 10.15 o'clock Monday morning.

The Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, will hold a smoking concert tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the clubroom, 715 View Street. Some of the artists who will take part in the programme will be: Reg. Storer, Al McKinnon, Len Foster, Jack Collins and party, Ronnie Smith and partner and the branch band, which will render selections.

Obituary

MORRIS MENKUS
Morris Menkus passed away early this morning at the family residence, 1105 Princess Avenue, after a protracted illness. He is survived by his widow, at the family residence. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WILLIAM PYE
Rev. Arthur Bischofberger conducted the funeral services yesterday afternoon over the remains of William Pye, in the presence of a large congregation. The hymns "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Rock of Ages" were sung. The casket and hearse were banked with beautiful floral tributes. The following acted as pallbearers: Chief Thomas Healey, Sergeant James Florence, A. McKinnon, E. Jackson, J. R. Terry and G. Gwyer. The remains were laid at rest in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

ALICE MARY DICK
Mrs. Alice Mary Dick of 1550 Wilmet Place, widow of William Dick who was for many years connected with the Bank of Montreal, passed away this morning at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. J. D. Laurie, 585 Linkins Avenue. Mrs. Dick was born in Trowbridge, England, a daughter of the late Frederick Webster. Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn will conduct the service, after which the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park. Flowers may be left at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co.

IDA ELIZABETH WATT McCALLUM
Many sorrowing friends attended the funeral services this afternoon for Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Watt McCallum, Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson officiating. The casket and hearse were covered with many beautiful flowers. Interment was in the family plot in Royal Oak Burial Park, the pallbearers being T. S. McPherson, G. H. Stevens, R. C. Fair, F. Calvert, W. C. Hembroff and R. D. McCaw.

HARRY R. WATSON
Funeral services for the late Harry R. Watson, 929 Johnson Street, will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the S. J. Curry and Son Funeral Home.

CECIL HENRY MEARES
In the presence of many friends, Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn conducted the last rites this morning over the remains of Col. Cecil Henry Meares, well-known explorer, who served with the Royal Air Force during the Great War. The hymn sung was "Breathe on Me Breath of God." The remains were later forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

JAMES SERVICE
James Service, aged seventy-five years, of 3275 Alder Street, passed away this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Service was born at Rothsay, Scotland, and had been a resident of the city for eighteen years. He is mourned by one daughter, Mrs. William Lees, with whom he resided, and one son, Donald M. Service of Vancouver, and six grandchildren, also two sisters in Scotland. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

AGED RELIEF LIST GROWING

Over One-fifth of Men Drawing Aid From City Over Sixty Years Old

Over a fifth of the men on city relief lists are over sixty years of age, officials announced today, as they surveyed the increasing problem of caring for those of more advanced years while seasonal employment absorbed many of the younger men.

Of a total of 1,100 men registered, 128 married and 116 single have passed the sixty mark, the figures showed.

In view of the fact industry showed a decided preference for younger men, the possibility of a decrease in the number of veterans on relief, with the exception of those with particular skill in different fields, appeared very doubtful, relief officials stated.

With that condition prevailing care of the more elderly men promised to furnish growing concern to the city, since their number are increasing as the years advance.

Flat Phone Rate For Vancouver

Vancouver, May 14.—Telephone toll calls between districts of Greater Vancouver will be replaced by a flat $2.60 monthly rate, the utilities committee of the Vancouver City Council decided today.

The scheme, which will come before the council for final ratification Monday, will probably be inaugurated by the end of the year.

Faces Triple Murder Charge

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 14.—Lester Brockelhurst, twenty-three-year-old paroled convict and former Sunday school teacher, sat moodily in a cell today, three men dead from his gun in what Lieut. H. A. Gay of the state police called a six weeks' crime tour.

His victims, named by Gay from reports received from police were: Albin Theander, forty-seven, Rockford, Ill., tailor.
Jack Griffith, Fort Worth, Tex., tavern owner.
Victor Gates, of Little Rock, Ark.

London Busmen Ballot Policy

London, May 14.—London's bus strikers voted today to decide whether the commission of inquiry's provisional report provided a sufficient basis for resumption of work. In garages throughout the city and in the suburbs 25,000 striking busmen cast their ballots.

The result was to be made known at a meeting in Transport House tonight.

According to the London Star, if the vote favors continuing the strike, the busmen may ask the 12,000 tram workers to join them.

FESTIVAL OF BRITISH MUSIC

Enjoyed By Victoria As Coronation Celebration Feature

By G. J. D.

Joining the Empire's celebration of the Coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, a three-evening "Festival of British Music" was given by the Victoria Choral and Orchestral Union at Christ Church Cathedral.

The first evening was especially for the young people and teachers of the city schools, and tonight the Cathedral will be open to the public in the concluding performance.

Yesterday was an invitation state evening and the sacred edifice was crowded to the doors. Among those present were the Administrator, Hon. Aubrey Morrison, attended by Captain W. Hobart Molson, Major N. W. Turner, Lieut.-Commander F. R. W. R. Gow and Mr. Hew Paterson; Hon. John Hart, representing the Legislative Assembly and His Worship Mayor Andrew McGavin.

Dean Quinton opened the proceedings with a prayer for Their Majesties, followed immediately with "Long Live the King," written by William Boyce, in 1732, sung by the boy choristers of the choir.

The programme that followed was built up with works by English composers to the Chapel Royal and the King, with the exception of Gustav Holst's "Fugal Overture," which proved a somewhat unfortunate inclusion among the traditional ceremonial patriotic music of beauty, charm and dignity.

Sir Edward Elgar's arrangement of the national anthem followed the Boyce excerpt, the three verses alternating with full choir, unaccompanied parts, solo and unison. This arrangement was made at the time when Elgar was invited to compose his "Coronation Ode" for a gala performance at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, in honor of King Edward VII. Sir Edward receiving his knighthood on the occasion.

Two of Handel's works followed: "Zadok the Priest," strikingly Handel-like, and one of the four Handel wrote for the Coronation of George II, and the singularly appropriate Handel "Water Music," produced at a royal aquatic fete, in an offer to regain favor with his King.

In the absence of the horns, the parts were played on the organ by Edgar Holloway, who officiated at the organ for Hubert Parry's "Dlest Pair of Brevs," with the Milton tribute, and produced in 1887, concluded the first part.

The second began with the Elgar "Coronation Ode," with three episodes: "Crown the King," of six stanzas, the last verse foreshadowing the ever-popular and famous "Land of Hope and Glory"; the second, "The Queen," "True Queen of British Homes and Hearts," and after the beautiful interlude, splendidly played, these were followed by "Land of Hope and Glory, Mother of the Free," in which the chorus and orchestra rose to a stirring and well-built climax, "We Have Crowned Our King!"

Sir Walford Davies's "Solemn Medley," the Holst number, Sir Hubert Parry's "Jerusalem," a favorite of the late King George V, and the mighty, triumphant "Hallelujah Chorus," from "The Messiah," brought a notable evening to a close, in which the cathedral organist, Stanley Bulley, and his forces deserve praise and appreciation of Victoria's citizens.

OAK BAY THEATRE

The long awaited Warner Bros. production of "Anthony Adverse," filmed from Hervey Allen's cyclopean novel, which boasts of 3,000,000 readers, comes to the Oak Bay Theatre today, with Frederic March in the stellar role and Olivia de Havilland playing opposite him in the feminine lead.

Popular French Star Takes Leading Role in "Seventh Heaven," Opening Today

The honors in "Seventh Heaven"—and there are plenty of them for all concerned—are divided primarily between the tremendously moving picturization of this, the tenderest romance of our time, and the fact that in it emerges fully an actress destined to be known as the greatest star on the screen—Simone Simon, co-starred with James Stewart in the Twentieth Century-Fox production which opens today at the Dominion Theatre.

Austin Strong's immortal love story, adapted from the stage play produced and directed by John Golden, presents once again that star-crossed pair of lovers, Diane and Chico.

Simone Simon, as the little waif, Diane, surpasses all hopes expressed for this sensational screen find. James Stewart—tall, laughing, grey-eyed—shines opposite her as Chico of the valiant spirit and the shy, yearning love.

For the background of "Seventh Heaven," Twentieth Century-Fox has recreated a vivid and picturesque Montmartre, set in the turbulent days of 1914. In the huge, subterranean Paris sewer, Chico spends his working days, scornful of the Providence that failed, first, to make him a street washer, and second, to bring him a fine, intelligent wife.

Chico saves the waif, Diane, from a beating, and also from gendarmes who would arrest her for throwing wine in the face of a café customer who annoyed her. To do this, he has to pose as Diane's husband, and the gendarmes announce that they will check up on him.

FINE MUSICAL AT THE ATLAS

Dorothy Lamour, who made her first screen appearance as the jungle girl in "The Jungle Princess," comes to the screen as a glamorous night club entertainer in "Swing High, Swing Low," in which Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray are co-starred and which is now at the Atlas Theatre.

Twain Classic Will Show Here

According to Mark Twain, the late great novelist and humorist, his story, "The Prince and the Pauper," is one of those things that "might have happened."

It is the tale of two boy babies born in London at the same moment in the sixteenth century—one being Prince Edward, heir to the throne; the other being Tom Canty, brat of a ruffian and thief. And Twain had them resemble each other identically—meet—change clothes—get their childish lives all mixed up.

It was a great novel. It became a great stage play. Now it has reached its top heights as a movie, which comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow, because at last the perfect players to fit the title roles have been found in Billy and Bobby Mauch.

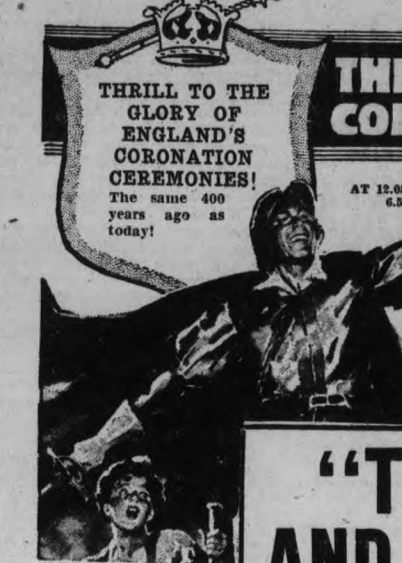

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Death rides with a group of care-free young people in their sport model roadsters in Paramount's romance-drama of auto hazards, "And Sudden Death," being shown at the Columbia Theatre today. The story is the first to come out of Hollywood which takes its thrill-power directly from the hazards of the highway.

Still crowned and garbed in their state robes of purple and ermine King George and Queen Elizabeth, with their children, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, smilingly respond from the balcony of Buckingham Palace to the enthusiastic ovation of thousands of their subjects, after their return in formal procession through London streets from the Coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey. Their happy expressions suggest that the crowns rest lightly on Their Majesties' heads. In the background are the Queen's attendants.

Tarzan's Quest

When Jane had organized her party for the perils of the jungle, she turned suddenly to Brown. "Lead on, I'll join you soon." Then she hurried back to the abandoned shelter where she left a note describing the accident and the direction they were taking.

By some remote chance a white hunter might find it and follow them along the trail, perhaps even Tarzan, her beloved mate, might pass this way. Jane shook her head sadly. No, that was too much to hope. Tarzan! Tarzan! If only he were here...

But the faces were no less kind to Tarzan himself, for the savage hands of Ugallo's warriors would fall heavily upon him should they discover him in their village. And here he was, about to attempt the rescue of his ten Waiki from their prison hut.

Dodging swiftly through the shadows, he made his way to the hut. He must act quickly, boldly, for three warriors were already running to fetch the prisoners to an ordeal of torture, perhaps death. If they caught a glimpse of him, all would be lost.

X-A NATIVE DANCE

When natives of central Africa start to dance, it is likely to prove a sight to behold. Henry Stanley saw the natives dance time and again.

"There is always noise and loud laughter," he tells us. "Often two men step out from a half-circle of their fellow villagers, and chant to the sound of a drum or horn, while all the others clap their hands. In other dances, one man may dance a solo while wearing feathers, strings of rattling gourds and small bells, also strings of teeth taken from monkeys, human beings and crocodiles."

Stanley watching the pharaoh dance.

On a May day in 1888, Stanley was treated to the sight of a "pharaoh dance." One thousand warriors of a chief named Masamboni were ordered to show the white leader how it was done.

At the beginning ten men stepped out, and leaped and turned to the music of ten drums. Then the full thousand men joined in, each holding a shield and raising a spear. With the movement, there came a mighty chorus. The dancers kept time by raising their feet and stamping on the ground.

"The forest of spears," wrote Stanley, "rose with countless flashes of polished iron blades, as they were tossed aloft and lowered again to the exciting thunder of drums."

"The thousand heads rose and drooped together. The dancers shook their right arms, as though their spirits were filled with warlike anger. But as their heads were bowed to earth, we seemed to feel war's agony and grief and woe. We thought of tears and widows' wails, and cries of fatherless orphans."

"Right up to my chair, the solid mass of chanting natives advanced. Then the lines, one after another, broke into a run, with spears clenched as in the act of throwing, and war whoops ringing."

Stanley finished his second journey across Africa in December, 1883, reaching the island of Zanzibar, off the eastern coast, two years and nine months after leaving the mouth of the Congo River. Emin Pasha and several hundred of his followers were with him during the later part of his travels, and at length they all reached Egypt safely.

Emin Pasha died in Africa three years later, after he had returned to Egypt. He had crossed the Congo Free State. His death came as the result of a plot by slave traders who were angry because of his efforts to stop slavery in Africa.

Stanley lived in England until his death in 1904. Late in his life he was honored by being made a British knight. "Bula Matari," This means "Breaker of Rocks," that is, "Maker of Roads." He did, indeed, do much to open pathways through central Africa.

Wives	Rule	Their	Husbands
They	Make or	Unmake	Them

Dorothy Dix

CONSIDERING THAT A man is legally and technically the head of the family, and as most men are better educated and have had far more worldly experience than their wives, it is a strange thing that wives have so much more influence over their husbands than husbands have over their wives.

Of course, husbands will deny this. Every man fondly believes that he is Czar in his own house and that his wife takes her opinions, her convictions, her likes and dislikes from him. It would surprise him beyond measure to know that instead of his leading the way, he is following meekly in his wife's footsteps, and that he is echoing all of her sentiments instead of her subscribing to his.

Nevertheless, such is very often the case, and when one of a married couple dominates the other it is nearly always the wife who rules the roost. There are a thousand hen-pecked men to where there is one roosterpecked woman.

We could understand it if the women who make rubber stamps of their husbands were possessed of supernatural cleverness and cunning, or if the husbands were dumb and inarticulate. But the most curious feature of this whole inexplicable phenomenon of Nature is that very often the wife who imposes the color of her every thought upon her husband is married to a man who is her superior in every way and who is noted for his independence and courage in the outside world.

I knew a scientist, a brilliant and original thinker, who was broadminded, liberal in his views on every subject and the soul of generosity. He married a stupid, uncultured, narrow, prejudiced, stingy woman, who in less than ten years had made him over on her own likeness. From their very wedding day he began to degenerate. She killed everything that was fine in him and pulled him down to her own level.

I have known innumerable men whose wives' influence was so great over them that they separated them entirely from the mothers who bore them and the sisters and brothers they loved. The reason a bridegroom's family is always in tears at his wedding is because they know that John's marriage may be his funeral ceremony just as far as they are concerned, and that they may be losing him just as much as if they were laying him in his grave.

Everything will depend upon his wife's attitude and whether or not she wants him to be friends with his people. Otherwise she will break off the relationship. How any man can have his mind poisoned against the mother whose devotion and tenderness he has known all his life; how any man can be separated from the brothers and sisters whose loyalty and help have never failed him, only the devil knows, but he has taught the secret to every jealous wife and she can turn the trick.

In the common, everyday affairs of life it is the wives who influence their husbands, not the husbands who influence their wives. It is the wives who decide where the family shall live and in what style; whether they shall be savers or spenders; whether they shall try to keep up with the Joneses or live according to their income; what church they shall go to; what schools the children shall attend, etcetera. Husband has precious little say-so in the domestic circle.

It is women who start to make over their husbands according to their little paper patterns as soon as they are married. Men seldom attempt the job of changing their wives. Perhaps it is because men know that it makes for peace and happiness to take a wife "as is," instead of trying to change her. Maybe it is because they know that it can't be done, and so do not wear themselves out attempting a hopeless task.

But, at any rate, it is a fact that wives influence their husbands far more than husbands influence their wives. No man, for instance, can alienate his wife from her own people. She will love them still and cling to them no matter how much he dislikes them. No big man can make a little woman see life from his point of view. No intelligence of a husband can cure a fool woman of her folly. As she was born and reared a woman, and her husband can no more change her than he can alter the shape and quality of the Rock of Gibraltar.

Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Has the practice made of "crashing" parties an accepted form of conduct?
2. Should a house guest enter enthusiastically into all of the plans of the hostess?
3. Is it good manners at bridge for the confident player to say, "The rest of the tricks are mine?"
4. How many score pads and pencils should be on each bridge table when a hostess is making the arrangements for a party?
5. How long does a hostess usually plan for her guests to play cards at an afternoon party?

What would you do if—
You are a hostess serving a buffet meal and your guests, after helping themselves, stand around the table instead of going into the living-room to eat—

- (a) Ask them to go in the living-room?
- (b) Take your own plate in the living-room and hope they will follow?
- (c) Leave your guests as they are?

Answers

1. No.
2. Yes.
3. No. It is quite possible he is mistaken!
4. Score sheets and pencils for every player.
5. An hour and a half or two hours if refreshments are to be served afterward.

Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(a).

KEATING

Mrs. B. Bickford and Mrs. F. C. Michell entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the former's home on Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. James Nimmo. Many useful gifts were presented to the bride in a decorated basket. Games and contests were enjoyed, prizes being won by Mrs. A. Sutherland, Mrs. J. Patterson, Mrs. A. Hafer and Mrs. R. E. Nimmo. A sit-down supper was served.

South Saanich Women's Institute held a five hundred party in the Temperance Hall Monday evening. Prize-winners were as follows: First, Mrs. E. T. Lewis and Mrs. C. L. Styan; second, Mrs. M. Bickford and W. W. Michell. Refreshments were served by Mesdames W. D. Michell, G. Polson, F. C. Michell and M. Bickford.

VICTORIA PLAY IN LONDON

London, May 14.—June 21, one day after the centenary of Queen Victoria's accession, the play "Victoria Regina" will be presented here, thus observing the Lord Chamberlain's edict that no sovereign may be portrayed on the stage until 100 years after his or her accession. Pamela Stanley will take the star role.

CONSTITUTION IS VOTED BY IRISH

Dublin, May 14.—The Dail Eireann last night gave second reading to the draft bill of the new Irish constitution on a vote of 69 to 43 after three amendments, which would have deferred consideration, had been rejected.

The vote was taken after the President of the Council, Eamon de Valera, had spoken for three hours. He denied allegations by the opposition that the constitution was intended to confer dictatorial powers on the proposed President of Ireland, to be elected by the people, or that it imposed an unequal status on women.

Referring to relations with the British Commonwealth of Nations, he said the constitution, which was made public recently, enabled parliament to alter the present status if the people desired.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

SATURDAY, MAY 15, 1937

As the week closes benefic aspects dominate, according to astrology. This is a fortunate day in which advertising should be more than usually effective.

Building and construction projects are well directed by the stars. The year is to add many impressive public edifices as well as artistic homes to American cities and countryside.

Saturn is read as pressing success for workers, who will enjoy shorter hours of labor and larger wages, but they are warned against accepting leadership which encourages selfish logic.

Deeds and misrepresentation are encouraged under this rule of the stars. Astrologers announce. Indirection and secret planning may be prevalent among organizations of various sorts.

Success through contracts or agreements signed today is indicated. Architects and builders should profit.

Women indeed seek professions and vocations for which they have special talents. Also, they will succeed in work formally monopolized by men. Great demand for nurses and dietitians is foretold.

Reform movements that are practical are prognosticated.

Cocktail parties are to become outmoded as social standards change and hospitality takes on a conservative fashion. Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of dramatic change. Business men may accept new partners. Elders will be helpful.

Children born on this day probably will be industrious and reliable. Subjects of many follow scientific pursuits.

Edwin Martin Shepard, geologist, was born on May 15, 1832. He has been celebrated as a birthday include Philip D. Arnold, March 1832.

LONGER LIQUOR HOURS

Winnipeg, May 14 (Canadian Press).—Beer parlor frequenters will get a break when daylight saving time goes into effect in Winnipeg this week-end. Parlor and liquor stores will remain open until midnight daylight saving time, R. D. Waugh, liquor commissioner, announced. Provincial laws say the stores must close at 11 C.S.T., an hour behind daylight time.

Fairbanks Bus Driver Tells How He Is $77,000 Richer
After Ice Break-up

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 14.—Mervin E. "Buster" Anderson, double winner of Alaska ice breakup guessing contests, turned investment of his $77,000 profit over to a banker-stepfather today and went back to bus driving. Anderson, thirty-one, a bus driver for ten years, told how he won the $75,000 Tanana River contest Wednesday and split a $4,000 prize with Billy Root, another bus operator, on the earlier Chena River breakup.

"I won the Tanana ice contest at Nenana by wild shots," Anderson explained. "I had twenty-five guesses registered. But I won the Chena River prize by choosing the minute representing my age."

The Tanana River broke at 10.04 p.m., Wednesday, two minutes later than Anderson's nearest guess. He and Root guessed the exact minute, 1.31 p.m., Tuesday, on the Chena breakup.

Anderson estimated he would have $50,000 to $60,000 after income tax payments. He left disposal of the money to his stepfather, H. S. Stroecker, president of the First National Bank of Fairbanks.

"I'll continue bus driving for some time," the winner declared, "and expect to remain in Alaska."

Two Drown In St. Lawrence

Montreal, May 14.—Two members of the crew of the Ss. Maplebranch rescued Joseph Labrecque, thirty-three, early today after he had clung to an overturned rowboat for close to five hours and seen his two companions disappear in the waters of the St. Lawrence River.

The rescued man said he and Eugene Tremblay, thirty-nine, and Joseph Robillard, forty, had been visiting friends on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, opposite Montreal. They left to come home shortly before midnight.

Buffeted by the strong winds, the three were exhausted more than an hour later when the boat reached midstream and overturned in a trough. Labrecque, alone, had the strength to swim back to their craft and hold on. His companions were swept to their deaths.
